PLAN FIXED FOR MAMMOTH DAM

County to Ask for Bids on San Gabriel Project

Long Controversy Ended by Supervisors' Actions

Structure to be Almost as High as New City Hall

The Board of Supervisors changed the plans for the great San Gabriel flood-control dam yesterday, ordered publication of advertising for bids on the job under the new specifications and cut short the controversy that has raged about the project ever since it was first broached.

The dam, as provided in the resolution changing the plans, will rise 426 feet above the stream bed, and will impound a maximum of 180,000 acre feet of water. The original plan upon the strength of which it was voted in the flood-control district called for a dam 425 feet high and of impounding capacity of 345,000 acre feet.

The Supervisors made the changes in plan upon the strength of a report by Charles D. Marks, F. H. Fowler and Charles E. Faul, engineers employed to make a special survey and to obtain, upon the recommendation of a committee organized by the Chamber of Commerce at the request of the board. These engineers found that a dam as originally planned would cost $31,000,000 instead of the $25,500,000 provided for by the bond issue. They found also that a reservoir of an impounding capacity of 180,000 acre feet would be sufficient to handle the run-off of the river, and that a 385-foot dam, impounding such a reservoir, could be built for $20,000,000.

CHANGED BY SOLID VOTE

The board, by unanimous vote, not only adopted a resolution declaring it to have been determined, as a matter of fact, that additional engineering information received warranted such a change in condition as to warrant alteration of the plans in the best interest of the district. The political code provides that the board may alter plans after they have passed upon them, only if it determines, by four-fifths vote, that "changed conditions" warrant such alterations. The resolution was drafted by Flood-attorney Orrel Roy Dowds.

Prior to the adoption of the resolution Supervisor Graves, in direct charge of flood-control work, gave some comparative figures showing the magnitude of the project. The dam will tower 426 feet, reaching a height equal to that of the new City Hall. It will contain nearly five times as much concrete as the great dam in Egypt. It will lack only four feet of being as high as the tallest of the Pyramids.

THREE YEARS TO BUILD

How many concrete can be poured per week, how many cubic yards of earth and rock will have to be removed, involving as it does excavation as a canal ten feet in depth of twenty feet bottom and one mile long. The successful bidder for the contract will have three years allowed to finishing $1,500,000 project before he will have to be ready to be able to turn over the keys of the dam to the county. It is estimated that the pouring of the concrete will require three years. A $2,000,000 highway will have to be set up by the contractor, camp to house his men must be built.

The dam will be a quarter of a mile long at the crest and a city and a half thick at the base. It will contain more than 3,500,000 cubic yards of concrete.

The lake and reservoir will protect the Los Angeles River Valley, from a flood such as occurred in 1914, so many that has been known. When it is completed Los Angeles county will have one of the finest flood-control dams. The Pacific Electric will be the highest arch dam in the United States type.

BERLIN DIPLOMAT TO BE CITY GUEST

CARAVAN TO MEET ENVOY ON ARRIVAL

Ambassador von Maltzan from Germany to Become Guest in City Tomorrow

Baron Ato Von Maltzan, German Ambassador, will arrive in Los Angeles by motor from Santa Barbara tomorrow and be greeted near Cahuenga Pass by an automobile caravan of prominent German-Americans of Southern California, according to an announcement of Seigfrid C. Hagen, German Consul here.

Immediately following his arrival the diplomat will be tendered an official welcome to the city at a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce at the Alexandria, starting at 12:30 o'clock. Mayor Cryer, President McGarry of the Chamber of Commerce and leading business men will attend.

In the afternoon Ambassador Von Maltzan will make a tour of the motion-picture studios in Hollywood. At Universal City he will be the guest of Carl Laemmle and witness a picture showing the arrival of the German warship Hamburg in Los Angeles Harbor last year. A dinner honoring the Ambassador will be given by Emil Jannings, German character actor, Friday evening. Eric Von Stroheim, director, and a number of screen writers and actors, are expected to attend the affair.

On Saturday morning the diplomat will be taken for a tour of the city and the beaches, returning to the Hotel Virginia at Long Beach for luncheon. From 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon he will be a guest at a garden party given by Carl Laemmle at his home.

More than 1000 invitations have been issued to German-Americans of Southern California to attend a banquet given in the Ambassador's honor Saturday night at the Biltmore. Speakers will be Prof. Von Klein-Smid, Max Hoehn, Mr. Hagen and Ambassador Von Maltzan.

On Sunday morning the singers of the Turnverein Germania will serenade the Ambassador from in front of the Biltmore. He will leave in the afternoon for a tour of the Grand Canyon.

WIDOWS' LEAGUE TO MEET

Los Angeles Branch Council, No. 10, Widows' Protective League, will celebrate the second anniversary of its founding tomorrow with a dinner at the Rosslyn. After the dinner the council will go to 246 South Hill street for its monthly social evening.

STREET FUND ASKED

Mayor Cryer and the Finance Committee of the City Council were asked to consider yesterday a request from the City Attorney that $100,000 be transferred to the opening and widening revolving fund "in order that the program of street widening may go forward."

SIX-CENT FARES OPPOSED

Expert Admits Yellow Lines Need More Income; Urges Economies and Transfer Charge

Admitting that the Los Angeles Railway Corporation is entitled to an increase in the gross yearly income to meet operating needs, Dr. Wilcox, admitted "expert" employed by the city, speaking from the witness stand in the rate hearing yesterday before State Railroad Commissioner Edwin O. Edwards, opposed 6-cent fares for the local yellow lines.

Dr. Wilcox asserted that 6-cent tickets for 50 cents might provide enough additional revenue to meet the Los Angeles Railway's needs, and at the same time offset any decrease in the collection of fares from passengers who would take advantage of the universal transfer system.

After a hot argument between Dr. Wilcox and Richard Saches, consulting engineer for the railway, the hearing was continued until the 28th inst. At that time Dr. Wilcox will be cross-examined and consideration will be given to the application for 6-cent fares pending a decision on the petition for a 7-cent basic rate. No action will be taken on the emergency rate before that date, it was announced. It will also be decided then when the hearing on the proposed 2-cent increase will be conducted.

The clash between Saches and Dr. Wilcox was precipitated when Wilcox took the stand and submitted valuation estimates of the corporation's property sharply in

ELECTRIC RATES TO BE CUT JULY 1

Edison Company Plans One Year's Experiment

Reduction of 14 Per Cent to Affect 365,000 Users

Stimulated Sales Hoped for; Commission Approves

Acting on its belief that a lowering of the maximum lighting rate to users of electric service would stimulate sales for household purposes and thus reduce service costs, the Southern California Edison Company, after consultation with the Railroad Commission of California in an informal conference, and with its approval, has decided to make an experiment along this line.

B. H. Ballard, executive vice-president and general manager of the Edison company, following a discussion with the engineering staff, announced the plan will be put into effect July 1, next.

WILL BE TRIED FOR YEAR

At present the maximum rate for lighting and general household use on the lines of the Edison company in Southern California is 6½ cents per kilowatt hour. Under the experimental plan this will be reduced to 5 6-10 cents, a reduction of 14 per cent. In the San Joaquin Valley territory the present 7-cent rate will be reduced to 6 cents. These reductions will apply to all the company's 365,000 domestic, agricultural and industrial consumers. It is proposed to try the plan for one year, after which a careful check will be made to see whether estimates made by the Railroad Commission have proven correct.

"Consumption often increases when prices are reduced, and we hope this will prove true in this case," said Ezra W. Decoto, president of the Railroad Commission, following the conference. "Much of the cost of supplying electricity to residences consists of the fixed charges on connection investment and the expenses of meter reading, book-keeping and collecting. These charges are just the same in the case of a house using ten kilowatt hours during the month as in one taking forty or more kilowatt hours. If you can encourage the small household to use more electricity by reducing the price, the additional expense to the company should be negligible and the housewife will benefit by the substitution of more electricity for her own muscular energy."

RATES SAME ALL OVER

"We welcome the opportunity to make their experiment," said Mr. Ballard. "The lower rates will affect 365,000 consumers, reaching every corner of our territory, as our lighting rates are uniform, with exactly the same charges for the farmer in the agricultural centers as are applied in the cities and industrial sections.

"A few years ago electricity was used in residences only at night, but the increased use of washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, refrigerators and small appliances had the effect of spreading out the demand, making reductions in lighting rates possible from time to time. Eastern visitors consider our present rates unusually low, but we are glad to give domestic consumers the opportunity to make them still lower. Whether or not this experimental rate becomes permanently effective depends entirely on how it is accepted by the public. If our customers take full advantage of it there is no apparent reason why it should not continue."

CHANGES IN PORT UNION COMMITTEE

Gaffey Succeeds Kerr; Allen Elected Chairman; Joint Meeting Planned

John T. Gaffey, harbor district pioneer, was yesterday appointed by Mayor Cryer as a member of the Los Angeles Port Unification Committee and attended the first meeting of the committee at noon at the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Gaffey takes the place of James A. H. Kerr, chairman of the chamber's harbor committee, who, with President McGarry of the chamber, resigned from the office on account of the necessity of attending conventions in the East.

Harbor Commissioner Allen was elected chairman yesterday and was instructed to communicate at once with the Long Beach Port Unification Committee to arrange for a joint meeting. Chairman Allen said he hoped he can arrange with City Manager Henderson of Long Beach for the first joint meeting next Saturday morning in Long Beach.

Shannon Crandall, who had been appointed by the Mayor in place of President McGarry of the chamber, attended yesterday's meeting, as did also President Workman of the City Council, and Harbor Commissioners Souden and Meline, and President McGarry of the chamber attended in place of Henry J. Bauer, the seventh member of the Los Angeles committee, who was unable to be present.

The members agreed that the port unification conferences should be started at once. Both Long Beach and Los Angeles have, by popular vote, approved of unification of the two ports, insisted upon by the Federal government.

SCHOOL TO GIVE "FIREFLY"

The musical comedy, "The Firefly," will be given tomorrow and Saturday evening at Roosevelt High School. In the cast are Ida Goldberg, Sol Popilsky, Elmer Bramel, Comse Barcelo, Joe Pasell, Mabel Gruger, Gerda Rothland, Rose Akerstein, Ida Smith, Dan Considene, Abe Dinovitz, Florence Pynoda, James Pico and Anna Casale. The school glee clubs will be the chorus. The senior orchestra will play.

HUNDREDS AT FUNERAL OF MILBANK

Friends Pay Tribute to Angeleno Stricken While on Trip Abroad

Last rites for Nichols Milbank, who occupied a prominent place in Los Angeles business circles for many years, were conducted yesterday morning in St. John's Episcopal Church. Hundreds of friends were present, among them many distinguished residents of the city, to pay a final tribute to their former associate.

Floral pieces were banked about the coffin and overflowed upon the chancel steps, their number giving evidence of the regard in which Mr. Milbank was held. Several trucks were necessary to transport the flowers to the San Gabriel Cemetery.

Mr. Milbank was stricken with apoplexy in Paris on April 30, last. He had been a member of St. John's Church and its treasurer, and the honorary pallbearers were drawn from members of the vestry and from the Society of Colonial Wars and the Society of Sons of the Revolution, in both of which organizations he had always taken an important part.

Dr. George Davidson read the funeral service at the church and interment was in the Milbank family plot at San Gabriel Cemetery.

The family resides at 671 Wilshire Place, and besides the widow there are three children, Mary, Morris and Nichols Milbank, Jr., and two sisters, Miss Caroline Milbank and Mrs. William Hall of Greenfield Hill, Ct. The deceased was 60 years of age.

TOURIST RUSH UNDER WAY

Trains Bring in More Than 1500 as Summer Rates from East Go in Effect

The tourist season opened with a rush yesterday when, according to carefully compiled estimates, more than 1500 summer visitors arrived in Los Angeles. Most of them came from Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and other States in the Middle West, with a generous sprinkling of others from as far away as Maine. Many of them indicated they intend to make their permanent homes here. Many others are coming they said, as soon as they can dispose of their holdings.

One of the first trains to arrive from the East, following the opening of the summer fare season last Sunday, was the Californian of the Southern Pacific Railway. It arrived at 7:45 a.m. with more than 100 tourists from Kansas City and neighboring towns. The Golden State Limited two hours later brought another 100 and later trains increased the number to approximately 800. A check-up taken on The Apache, before it left Chicago Sunday night, revealed that more than a score of passengers from Illinois were coming to California with the intention of becoming permanent residents. In almost every instance relatives are expected to follow.

The California Limited, first train on the Santa Fe to arrive since the reduced fare season opened, brought several hundred, as did others during the day. Total arrivals for the day, officials of the road said, would exceed 600.

The Union Pacific added many more to the day's total.

The first day's arrivals are considered remarkable in view of the fact that the summer rates became effective Sunday which is an unusually light day for travel, according to railroad officials.

The reduced fares, which are approximately two-thirds the regular round-trip rate, will be in effect in the East until September 30, with a return limit extending to October 31.

AIR PILOT FINED FOR SMASH-UP

Aviator Duly Convicted of Recklessness in First Case of Kind Here

The first conviction in California courts, perhaps courts anywhere, on a charge of reckless driving of an airplane, was recorded yesterday before Municipal Judge Richardson when Earl Carlisle, a commercial aviator, pleaded guilty.

He was fined $100, but the fine was suspended on condition he pay for a lamp post he smashed at Leona Boulevard and Mildred avenue, Venice, on February 18, last.

Carlisle told the court he had sold his plane and landing field and was trying to deliver the plane to the purchasers at the time of the smash. His field being too muddy to start from, he put the plane in the street and had started to take off when an automobile appeared. He had to swerve to avoid it, he said.

"KING OF KINGS" IMPRESSES

Spectators Hushed Before Magnificence of Christ Life Story at Chinese Theater

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The greatest premiere in motion-picture history served to introduce "The King of Kings" to the public here last evening. Cecil B. De Mille's climaxing production of his career, interpretation of the life of the Christ, shown in conjunction with the opening of Grauman's new Chinese Theater, proved an event of such resplendence as to assume a national and perhaps international importance.

There is nothing in the annals of the films to parallel the amazing qualities of this first presentation. De Mille's picture is totally remarkable and without precedent, while the new Grauman theater is a revelation of beauty unequalled.

STRANGE CONJOINING

It is a strange conjoining, of course, the story of the Christ, and a social happening that in its dazzle rivals any other that might be imagined. It is a strange thing even to visualize "The King of Kings" having its premiere in the curiously remote atmosphere of a Chinese theater.

However, that strangely enough seems to be the way that destiny, and particularly film destiny, shapes itself nowadays—based on just such strange incongruities. And still more strangely, this circumstance viewed in perspective of said incongruities presents little of the obtrusively irreverent.

An audience that came ot the Chinese Theater to enjoy, met the mood of the showing of "The King of Kings" and ere the film had wended its way the feeling of the beholder was transmuted by a visioning of a theme and an interpretation of a deeply spiritual significance that was apparently conceived with the utmost sincerity and earnestness.

To say that "The King of Kings" is a moving interpretation of the life of the Christ would perhaps be to raise many insistent questions. Sufficient for the moment is it to chronicle that this production is deeply impressive—that it is magnificent in spectacular embellish-

FILMS LURE MISS CARLSON

Coast Oratorical Contest Winner to Visit Studios Today and Take Screen Test

Has the Hollywood bug bitten Miss Dorothy Carlson, winner of The Times Grand Finals in the Fourth National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution? Miss Carlson says most emphatically no but the answer will be easier to make after her visit to several of the studios today, during which it is more than likely that she will take a screen test. Miss Carlson and her mother, Mrs. W. O. Carlson of Salt Lake City, although frequent visitors to Los Angeles, never have visited a motion-picture studio and each is expecting a delightful experience on their initial trip today.

Miss Carlson voices dramatic aspirations but—today at least—is of the opinion she would prefer the spoken to the silent drama. She admits, however, the possibility of undergoing a change of mind in this regard following a visit behind the scenes and adds that she will be perfectly frank in a statement following a witnessing of the whys and hows of that most marvelous business.

WILL RETURN HOME

Following this visit Mrs. and Miss Carlson will leave Southern California tomorrow evening for Salt Lake City, tarrying in the home town a few days in preparation for the continuation of the trip to Washington, in which they will be joined by Mr. Carlson, who was unable to journey to Los Angeles and witness his daughter's local victory, owing to press of business. He has advised his wife and daughter that he has now made plans to accompany them to the National Finals in which he hopes to see his daughter win still further honors.

National Finals in this contest is easily the outstanding forensic event of the Capital where the contest is conducted annually. For the contest this year, which will take place on the 27th inst., Herbert C. Hoover has consented to deliver the principal address of the evening—aside, of course, from the seven zone representatives who will vie for the honor of National High School Oratorical Champion. John Hays Hammond will preside at the gathering and present the several orators while Frank B. Noyes, Washington publisher, will present the

AUDITORS LIST STOCK EXCESS

Julian Overissuance Set at 3,665,015 Shares

Lewis Turns Over Holdings in Eastern Oil

Restitution Plans Center in Attack on Poolers

Official estimate of outstanding Julian Petroleum Corporation stock, which recently was barred from the market in a financial tangle, yesterday was placed at 3,600,015 shares of preferred and 1,265,000 shares of common in reports made by auditors to Joseph Scott and H. L. Carnahan, Federal receivers of the corporation.

The corporation was legally authorized to issue 600,000 shares each of preferred and common, leaving the overissue standing at 3,000,015 shares of the former and 665,000 of the latter. The preferred stock had a valuation of $50 per share and the common stock had a par value of $10 per share, or $6,665,000. The corporation was originally capitalized between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000.

TURNS OVER ASSETS

With the extent of the asserted overissue determined, S. C. Lewis, resigned president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, surrendered 600,000 shares of California-Eastern Oil Company stock to the receivers for the protection of the stockholders. The 600,000 shares have a par value of $10 each.

The receivers announced yesterday they would have their first conferences with Lewis today, and while they said plans for solution of the financial problem were progressing rapidly, it was learned from other reliable sources that restitution plans included an attack against stock traders who profited largely in "pools" which are said to have reached between $40,000,000.

Lewis, late last night, after a prolonged conference with Haskins and Sells, auditors, confirmed the receivers' estimate on the asserted overissue at 3,000,000 shares of preferred Julian stock. One million of these shares, he said, are eligible for and will be cancelled as spurious issue.

Of the remaining 2,000,000 shares, Lewis declared, 1,280,000 have been sold for $6.50 each, while the remaining 750,000 shares have been marketed for $10 each, thus selling $100,000,000 worth of the securities for $15,000,000. Of the latter figure, the former president of the corporation said, $9,500,000 will be deducted for brokers' bonuses, leaving $5,500,000 which will accrue to the benefit of the stockholders and be placed in the hands of the receivers.

Lewis also stated that A. C. Wagy & Co., Inc., owed the Julian Petroleum Corporation 200,000 shares of stock or their equivalent in cash, which also becomes assets to the benefit of the stock subscribers.

The restitution attack against the "poolers" will demand a return to the assets of the corporation all bonuses and exorbitant interest, above 7 per cent, which practice, it was said, caused the financial entanglement.

POOL USED FOR FUNDS

The "pool" plan was understood to have been worked when the corporation was in need of funds. Scores of traders and others contributed to the "pools," creating a loan for the corporation, and in turn demanded bonuses and other rewards in excess of 7 per cent interest until the stock of the corporation was assertedly far overissued in order to meet the demands of the "poolers."

It is from this source, it was learned, that the receivers hope to recoup largely the losses suffered in the stock manipulation. Furthermore, it was understood that receivers have been besieged with many offers in the past twenty-four hours with offers of fund returns from participants in the "pools."

Among the group of "pool" operators are understood to be a number of San Francisco stock traders, who are said to have taken advantage of the corporation's pressing need for money and cast funds into the "pool," thereby realizing huge returns on their "loans."

Officials investigating the stock and financial tangle were of the opinion that investors holding bona fide shares would be given first preference in the scheme of recuperation and the next would be those investors who unwittingly bought and traded in asserted spurious stock. The third group is composed of those, the of-

BRITISH newspapers are puzzled as to what Briand meant by proposing that France and the United States get together and outlaw war—agreeing never to fight each other.

If all other theories fail, they might consider whether he could not have meant what he said.

THE AMATEUR "RED"

The real pity of the case of Charlotte Anita Whitney lies in this: That it was so unnecessary.

A woman of wealth, education, attainments and family, why on earth did she want to get mixed up in the silly blather of radicalism? And now she faces one to fourteen years in prison.

Everyone tried to dissuade her; but she created a situation that left the police and the courts no alternative. About the most fatal habit in this cruel world is the habit of creating situations.

WELL ENOUGH ALONE

The modern industrial system is not perfect; that's a fact. But under it working men—and everybody else—have been happier, better fed and possessing more luxuries than any other system the world has ever known.

The plan of these hooligans with whom Miss Whitney consorted was to sink the ship because they didn't entirely like the way the propeller sounded.

SHOCKED HIM

An old Sioux chief is visiting in Los Angeles; and some one took him down to the beach.

After an astonished survey of the scenes, he remarked: "White man said that Indian no good because not wear enough clothes. Huh!"

DOUGHBOYS

In the late eighties and nineties there was a similar outburst of war articles in the magazines. In that case they were nearly all written by famous generals.

The stories of today relate mostly to the humble doughboy.

This may be due in part to the fact that democracy now prevails; but more, no doubt, to the fact that it was essentially a doughboys' war.

Never was there a war in which the brains of generals figured so little.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

The marked difference in the stories told at various times by the delectable Miss Dorothy Mackaye strongly suggest a lady of color I once heard giving testimony in a murder trial.

They asked how it was she said thus and such now; but something else at another time.

"Well," she said, tartly, "all my stories are right in front of you; believe whichever one you darn please."

Kelly Takes Witness Stand to Describe Fist Fight With Raymond

SELF-DEFENSE EXCUSE GIVEN

Actress's Husband Accused of Pushing Attack

Own Valet's Testimony on Love Affair Denied

Jury Expected to Receive Case Tomorrow

Ray Raymond, musical comedy man, yesterday was pictured as the aggressor in his fist fight with Paul Kelly, beau brummel Hollywood film actor, when Kelly took the witness stand in Superior Judge Burnell's court to plead for his own liberty on a charge of murder for Raymond's death in a fist fight over the affections of Dorothy Mackaye, widow of the asserted victim.

Modest in appearance and in a rather boyish voice, Kelly, who is 27 years of age, told his side of the story of his encounter with Raymond which, the State contends, proved fatal to the actor and was provoked by the defendant's affections for Miss Mackaye.

Kelly averred he went to Raymond's home at the latter's invitation and that the musical comedy man with whom, he said, he had been friends for ten or more years, called him fighting names and made insinuating remarks about Miss Mackaye which caused him to strike Raymond.

ADMITS LOVE

At no time, he testified, did he encourage Raymond to fight. He said he merely defended himself against Raymond's onslaughts.

Kelly, however, admitted his love for Miss Mackaye. He denied the testimony of his former Japanese houseboy, "Jungles" Teno Yobu, that Miss Mackaye had spent the night with him at his apartment and that the houseboy had served them breakfast in bed.

The defendant took the stand at 3:15 p.m. yesterday after Chief Defense Attorney W. I. Gilbert had completed a medical defense put on to show Raymond died from natural causes and not from any blows struck by Kelly.

With the calling of Kelly it was predicted the case will be in the hands of the jury by tomorrow evening or Monday afternoon. Kelly was still on the stand when court adjourned last evening and will resume his narrative when the trial is resumed this afternoon at 2 p.m.

SHORT REBUTTAL

Dep. Dist.-Attys. Murray and Kemp, who are prosecuting, indicated their rebuttal testimony will be short when Mr. Gilbert announced Kelly would be the last defense witness.

Miss Doris Kelly, sister of the defendant, broke down when Kelly opened his story and left the courtroom with a friend. She returned later on, however, and listened attentively as he answered questions propounded by Mr. Gilbert.

Kelly detailed the length of his acquaintance with Raymond and Miss Mackaye which, he said, had its inception ten years ago in New York and which, he asserted, developed into his love for Miss Mackaye shortly before last Christmas.

The defendant admitted his love for the actress indirectly. He was present at the Raymond home with four or five other guests, he said, when Raymond came in excited and nervous and under the influence of liquor. He was in the kitchen chopping ice. Miss Mackaye was holding some glasses for him.

Raymond ordered him out of the house. He refused to give a reason, the witness said.

ANSWERS QUERY

"I told Raymond I would tell him the reason," the witness said. "I told Raymond he thought I was in love with his wife. He said: 'Yes.' I said: 'You're right.' I put on my coat and left the house and drove away."

On the Saturday night of the fight, he said, Miss Mackaye, her "girl friend," Helen Wilkinson, and Max Wagner, his room-mate, were present when he went to his bedroom and called Raymond on the telephone. The others did not hear his conversation, he said, because the phone was far removed from the living-room where they were sitting.

The witness said he told Raymond he had heard he was making remarks about him and that he wanted his telephone number.

"Raymond told me he wished I was over there," Kelly said. "I told him not to worry; that I would be over right away." He said he left his home and went immediately to Raymond's, being met at the door by Charlotte Ethel Lee, negress, who was the Raymond's housekeeper. He said he didn't want to go in but that Raymond insisted.

The first remark Raymond made, he said, as they sat on a divan to talk it over was: "Where's my wife? You ought to know, she'r been living with you."

With that, Kelly said, he struck Raymond across the mouth with the back of his hand, telling Raymond he should be ashamed of himself for talking that way about his wife.

Kelly said Raymond started to call him fighting names and that he slapped him in the mouth again. He said Raymond pleaded he was tired because he had been on a train for twenty-four hours and had been drinking. Kelly said he told Raymond that was only his alibi.

"I told Raymond he used to be a great fellow in New York but that since he had come here he had changed; that he was a braggard and thought he knew everything," Kelly testified.

Because of Raymond's abusiveness, he said, he asked him to take Valerie, his 4½-year-old daughter, out of the room. Raymond told her to go into the kitchen, he said.

Kelly said the reason he called Raymond on the phone was because he had heard Raymond had said he "didn't care for me—he was a wild-cat and was going to get me."

HEAD HITS COUCH

The witness declared he only hit Raymond two blows as they sat on the divan. He got up and went to the kitchen, he said, for a cigarette. Miss Lee, he said, had begged him not to strike Raymond again and he said he told her he was sorry and that we would not. As he looked around, he said, he saw Raymond coming at him with clenched fists.

"He was practically on top of me," the witness stated. "I hit him and he stumbled backward, catching himself on a table. He sat down in a chair. I told him to get up and fight like a man. He got up and came back at me. I hit him again. He stumbled backward, fell down and hit his head on the couch."

He then got his hat, he testified, and went home. When he got there, he said, he discovered a bruise on the left side of his chin and another on his right cheek bone.

While they were in a clinch, he said, Miss Lee came between them and told him "this is enough" and for him to go as it was Raymond's home.

REFUTES VALET

"I took my hat and went home. I wasn't there more than ten minutes," he said.

When he got home Max Wagner, his room-mate was asleep, he said. Later on Miss Mackaye and Miss Wilkinson arrived. They left about 11:30 p.m. he said.

He denied he kicked Raymond or struck him while he was down on the couch.

After he had slapped Raymond in the mouth, he said, Raymond told him to come back in an hour or so and he would be "in condition to fight." Kelly said he told him he would but that he told Raymond he thought he would have friends there to aid him. Kelly said he told the actor he would also bring along a friend to "keep yours off me."

While Raymond was in San Francisco with his musical comedy company, Kelly said, he saw Miss Mackaye four or five times a week, but Miss Wilkinson always accompanied her. Sometimes, he said, they came to his home for breakfast.

"You heard the statement of your Japanese house boy concerning you and Miss Mackaye in bed and him serving breakfast to you?" Mr. Gilbert inquired.

"It's not true," Kelly answered.

He then told of Miss Mackaye's visits to his apartment on the two days preceding his fight with Raymond. He admitted he took several drinks on these occasions, but was not sure whether Miss Mackaye and Miss Wilkinson drank liquor.

The day following the fight, he said, was the last time he saw Miss Mackaye until the trial opened. On that day, he said, Miss Mackaye and Miss Wilkinson visited his apartment and remained only fifteen minutes.

MONEY ADVANCED

He was questioned concerning $800 he had "advanced" to Miss Mackaye.

"I advanced the money but didn't know for what reason," he asserted.

He said he gave it to Wagner on the day Raymond died to deliver to Miss Mackaye. The first he heard of Raymond's death was from Wagner, he said. He then described his arrest and the conditions under which he made his statement to Hollywood detectives in which he admitted his fight with Raymond and that he had gone to the latter's home in a "pugnacious mood."

Other witnesses testified Miss Mackaye used the $800 to pay Raymond's doctor and hospital bills and to bury him.

MEET IN NEW YORK

The reason he did not leave the house at that time, he said, was because Raymond started after him when he went into the kitchen.

Kelly said he was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. He began his career on the stage when he was 7 years of age. He said he had known Miss Mackaye about two years before she married Raymond.

"I met her around New York when we were just children looking for work," he said.

He said he weighed 178 pounds. He estimated Raymond's weight at between 135 and 140 pounds.

He said he met Miss Mackaye first in California when Raymond took him to his home. That was in October or November of 1926. Raymond was engaged in theatrical work at the time, he testified, and with his consent he took Miss Mackaye to the theater. Raymond seemed glad there was someone to entertain his wife while he was at work, he said.

After the theater, he asserted, he and Miss Mackaye would meet Raymond and take him home.

The first sign of trouble was when Raymond ordered him out of his home just before Christmas, he asserted.

STARS TESTIFY

The motion-picture actors, actresses, directors and authors who were called to the stand to testify concerning Kelly's reputation for peace and quiet included James Kirkwood, his wife, Lila Lee; Owen Davis, dramatist of New York; John J. Gain of New York, executive manager for Famous Players-Lasky; Lewis Milestone, director for United Artists, and Matt Moore, motion-picture actor.

First of these to be called to the stand was Mr. Kirkwood. He said he had known Kelly for seven or eight years; that they had been members of the Lambs' Club in New York.

"Do you know Mr. Kelly's general reputation as to whether he was a quiet, peaceful, law-abiding citizen?" Mr. Gilbert asked.

"Yes," the actor answered.

"Was it good or bad?"

"Good."

The witness admitted he did not know anything concerning Kelly's actions while he might be under the influence of intoxicating liquors. He said he had never seen him in such a condition.

While Miss Lila Lee was on the stand, Mr. Murray asked her whether she had ever heard of him entertaining a 17-year-old boy, who was a member of his company, at his home and of Kelly becoming angered at the boy because he bumped into him and of it taking two other guests to restrain him from attacking his young guest.

COUNSEL PROTESTS

She said she had not, but when Mr. Gilbert jumped to his feet and entered a vigorous objection he was sustained by the court and her answer was withdrawn from the record.

As Miss Lee walked from the witness stand she took Kelly's hand and shook it as if to wish him good luck.

Mr. Gain said he had known Kelly for eighteen months and declared his reputation as to peace and quiet was good as far as he knew.

"Did you know his character when he was under the influence of liquor?" the witness was asked. He replied he had never seen Kelly in such a condition. The other witnesses were asked similar questions by Mr. Gilbert and by Mr. Murray and gave the same answers to each.

FILM PLAYERS CALLED

With the completion of the testimony of Dr. Sullivan and McHugh, Mr. Gilbert called to the stand a number of prominent film actresses, actors and directors who testified as to Kelly's reputation as to peace and quiet in the community in which he resided. This line of testimony was followed by the calling of medical experts who expressed their opinion as to the cause of death of Raymond after Mr. Gilbert read to them a 1500-word hypothetical question outlining his physical condition as given by witnesses.

The two experts were Dr. Francis L. Anton and Dr. Gustav Boehme, Jr. The former, after hearing the hypothetical question propounded by Mr. Gilbert said, in his opinion, that Raymond's death was due to cerebral apoplexy adduced by lobar pneumonia and a continued alcoholic spree which aggravated the condition.

Mr. Murray objected to certain statements in the hypothetical question which were corrected to the satisfaction of all concerned after a detailed discussion of the testimony given by witnesses as to Raymond's condition before his death.

Asked what he thought was the cause of the cerebral hemorrhage, Dr. Anton said his opinion was weakness of blood vessels or injury. In his opinion, he said that if the hemorrhage was caused by a severe blow unconsciousness would have resulted almost immediately.

POSSIBLE CAUSE

"Could a blow from a fist cause a subdural hemorrhage?" he was asked.

"Yes, if it were a severe blow," was his answer.

Dr. Boehme, after hearing the hypothetical question, attributed the cause of death to cerebral apoplexy, secondary to pneumonia which was aggravated by alcoholism and a substrata of chronic nephritis.

"Would the fact that the deceased was administered a severe beating change your opinion?" Dr. Boehme was asked.

"I don't think so," was his reply.

He then engaged in a long discussion of his reasons for his answer to the question. He said a blow or series of blows might have caused the cerebral hemorrhage but that the clinical history of Raymond's illness excluded any possibility of that.

Dr. Sullivan was the first witness when the case was resumed yesterday morning. He was cross-examined by Mr. Murray.

"Was there any evidence of injury on Raymond?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said.

"Did you ever say there was not?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you testify at the Coroner's inquest there was no evidence of injury to the head?"

"I said there was no evidence of a skull injury."

REASON FOR DEATH

Dr. Sullivan denied he had told County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner he found blood in Raymond's spinal fluid which would be indicative of a skull injury and that he agreed that his heart was in a normal condition. He said his laboratory tests indicated death was attributable to a nephritic condition.

"Didn't you attribute death to a nephritic coma before an autopsy was performed?" he was asked.

"Yes," was his answer.

He admitted he was willing, at that time to sign a death certificate giving that as the cause. After the autopsy he said his diagnosis of death was nephritic coma, hypostatic pneumonia, subdural hemorrhage and alcoholism.

During his questioning Mr. Murray sought to show that the laboratory report on the spinal fluid showed blood cells, but Dr. Sullivan asserted this was due to the fact that the needle penetrated several spinal muscles which drew blood.

Testimony of Miss Mackaye was assailed when one of the jurors asked Dr. Sullivan if there was any evidence that a certain medicine was used on a scalp injury which, she said, had been sustained by Raymond when he broke a glass over his head during one of his asserted drunken moments. Dr. Sullivan said he did not see any evidence that such a medicine was used.

CALLED INTO CASE

Dr. McHugh, who was called into consultation by Dr. Sullivan, asserted the first time he saw Raymond was two days after the fight and several hours before his death. At the time, he said, Raymond was semiconscious. He said he observed he had a black eye and bruises on his chest and shins. There was no indication of paralysis, he said.

"What was your diagnosis?" he was asked.

"Pneumonia was apparent," he said. "I attributed unconsciousness to brain swelling and was satisfied the man had nephritis and alcoholism as well."

Dr. McHugh's testimony clashed with that of Dr. Wagner, as did that of Dr. Sullivan, in that he said a subdural hemorrhage is caused not only by injury but by any number of diseases as well. The County Autopsy Surgeon stated it is infrequent a subdural hemorrhage is brought on by disease. Dr. Wagner attributed this as the main cause of Raymond's death.

"Could a subdural hemorrhage be caused from a fist blow?" he was asked.

"Such cases are known but in my experience I don't recall such an instance," he said.

He said it is possible for a subdural hemorrhage to occur during one's sleep from any one of the diseases he mentioned. On cross-examination he denied he had withheld any information from Dr. Wagner when the autopsy was conducted.

SHRINE LUNCHEON IN SMALLER QUARTERS

The luncheon of Al Malaikah Temple of the Shrine will be held this noon in the Biltmore supper room, instead of the ballroom, as usual. The smaller capacity of the quarters urges early attendance on the part of those wishing to witness the program that Noble Frank T. Price has prepared. On this are listed the Melody Four, 1000 pounds of masculine harmony; Mary Jane and Dolores, a novelty duo, whose personality is plus-four; Marjorie Day, Charleston and black bottom exponent and expert; Moore and Clark, "from the stone age;" a big Spanishtown revue, i.. a zippy series, and the Franklin brothers, with their frolics in midair. Ben Laletsky and his band will furnish the incidental music and play for the acts.

CHANGE REQUESTED IN WIDENING PLAN

Plans for the widening of Sixth street in such a manner as to prevent damage to the Western Improvement Company's six-story concrete warehouse on Sixth street were submitted by the company to the City Council yesterday. The plan, which would obviate the necessity of cutting fourteen feet from the warehouse and avoid damage estimated at $200,000, was referred to the City Engineer and the Street Opening and Widening Committee.

Paul Kelly Testifies

Cinema Folk Put End to Dull Hours at Trial

After a morning session so dull that nearly everyone had to struggle to keep awake (one spectator dropped her chin on her chest and had a good snooze,) the afternoon performance of the Kelly trial yesterday took a new lease on life and interest once more rose to a high pitch. Several motion-picture people were called to the stand as character witnesses and Kelly, himself, started his testimony at 3:15 in the afternoon.

James Kirkwood provided the first afternoon thrill. He was followed by Owen Davis, a playwright, short, round and jovial looking, who was only on the stand for a few moments. Then came Lila Lee, or Mrs. James Kirkwood. All of the women in the courtroom were busy gazing at her fuchsia-colored dress with polka dots about the size of a half-dollar, small black hat and black fox fur, while she cast her great brown eyes over the jury and the attorneys. Once during her testimony she smiled at Kelly and as she passed by him on the way out she put her hand on his shoulder and spoke to him.

Matt Moore also was called but there were no gasps when he climbed into the witness stand. They all testified to Kelly's good character and not one of them had ever so much as seen him sniff at a drink of intoxicating liquor.

Other inhabitants of the cinema world called were John G. Gain, executive manager of Famous Players-Lasky organization; Lewis Milestone, director for United Artists. Then, tucked over in a far corner, just looking on, was Thomas Meighan and elsewhere in the audience were Marguerite De la Motte, John Bowers and Bonnie Adair.

At 3:15, while a great hush spread over the assemblage, Paul Kelly went to the stand. At first there was a stir as everyone made an attempt to shift into the best observing position. Then came rapt attention and eager anticipation. Kelly was dressed in a dark blue suit and black tie. He showed some signs of nervousness as he took his place, although there was no tremor or trace of anxiety in his voice when he spoke. He has a low, rather pleasing voice and a decided New York accent, and he told his story in a straightforward way. As he told of his love for Dorothy Mackaye the courtroom was silent and the listeners all strained forward in order that they might catch his every inflection. Doris Kelly didn't take her eyes from his face during the entire time. He was still on the stand when court adjourned and will continue again this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Someone in court had been using campho-phenique yesterday and the atmosphere fairly reeked with it. In view of the great masses of medical testimony, it was rather appropriate and helped to get the people into the spirit of the occasion.

Several of the doctors who testified yesterday had to be held down on occasion from rambling into long flights of oratory on the subject nearest their hearts. No doubt they considered the opportunity a golden one for displaying their intricate knowledge of medicine to a good audience. Judge Burnell, however, evidently felt that a direct "yes" or "no" was more in order when possible and so informed the doctors.

The situation was so medical all morning that the strain was affecting everyone, and a short recess had to be called to relieve the tension. If a subdural hemorrhage had been mentioned just once more the chances are it would have caused a stampede.

ANGELES MESA DRIVE RESIDENTS TO MEET

A mass meeting of citizens residing or owning property within one block of Angeles Mesa Drive, between West Adams and the southern city limits of Los Angeles, will be held tonight in the Leimert Park administration building at Eighth and West Vernon avenues. The meeting is to crystallize sentiment along Angeles Mesa Drive for the widening and paving of this artery, which is now becoming increasingly important, due to the intensive development of the southwest. Councilman Moore and a representative from the city engineering department will appear at the meeting to explain the necessary steps for the contemplated improvements.

KELLY'S STORY OF FIST FIGHT

Defendant Details Battle With Ray Raymond

Testimony Insists Actor Was Aggressive

Offered to Shake Hands But Opponent Refused

The transcript of the testimony of Paul Kelly, film actor, yesterday in Superior Judge Burnell's Court in which he gives Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, in part follows:

Questions by Mr. Gilbert:

Q.: What was said when you went in the Raymond house?

A.: I said, "Well, what about those remarks you were making about me?" He said: "Never mind that, never mind that. Let's sit down and talk this thing over."

Q.: Well, you sat down, and what happened then?

A.: He said, "Where is my wife? You ought to know; she has been living with you." I slapped him in the mouth. I said, "That is a nice way to talk about your wife, isn't it?"

Q.: And what did he do then?

A.: Well, he was sort of surprised at that. Then, I don't remember the exact words. Then he started swearing.

Q.: What did he say?

A.: Well, he called me lots of names.

Q.: Then, what?

A.: Then I realized the baby was in the room and I asked him as long as he was going to swear like that would he mind asking the baby to leave the room.

Q.: What did he say?

A.: So he said, "Go on out in the kitchen, Valerie, with Ethel."

Q.: Those were the only two blows that were struck while you were sitting down?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: Well, go right ahead, then.

SAID HE WAS TIRED

A.: Well, I can't remember the exact words or what it was about, but I do know he brought up that he couldn't fight me, that he had gotten off a train, had been on a train for twelve hours—I am almost sure he said twenty-four hours—was tired; I told him that was just an alibi. He said he had been making these remarks.

And I said, "Ray," I said, "In New York I used to think you were a great fellow at the club,' and I said, 'Since you have been out here you have changed an awful lot.' I said, 'you are getting to be a braggart. You want what we term the center of the stage all the time; there isn't any subject that is brought up that you don't know all about it; there isn't anything done that you don't and can't do better.'

With that I think he said, "I will knock you down."

And I said, "Oh, no, you won't, Ray." He said, "Well, I am not in any condition to fight you now." He said, "I am drunk." I said, "I have had a couple of drinks myself." He said, "But I will tell you what you do, you come back in an hour and a half and I will be in condition." And I said, "What did you say, Ray?"

He said, "You come back in an hour and a half and I will be in condition." I said, "How many friends will you have here?" He said, "Never mind that." I said, "All right, I am perfectly willing, if you want me to." I said, "But do you mind if I bring just one friend along just to sort of keep your friends off, or if you don't feel that you are able to fight me, if you want to, and one of your friends wants to take your place, I will try and protect myself. But my friend, all he will do is to see that you or none of your friends interrupt, no matter what happens."

GOES TO KITCHEN

So I don't remember whether he was smoking a cigarette at the time or whether he reached for a cigarette in his pocket. Then I got up, went to the kitchen to Miss Lee, whom I knew smoked and had her own cigarettes, and I asked her if she would give me a cigarette. She gave me one and said, "Don't hit him, Paul; he hasn't eaten all day, and he is tired." I said, "All right, I won't." So, as I was turning to go back into the living room to get a match, Mr. Raymond was coming toward me with his hand clinched and was almost on me, and I hit him.

Q.: Well, what occurred then?

A.: Well, he stumbled back about two steps and started falling backward, but he broke his fall by catching hold of the edge of the table, and he sat down, the momentum carried him on a little more, so he rolled over on his side. So I said, "Get up on your feet and fight like a man." He got up on his feet. I hit him again. He was coming toward me. As he got on his feet he put his hands up. I struck him again and he staggered back about one or two steps and lost his balance. This time he staggered back and lost his balance and sat down, and his head, the back of his head, hit up against the couch.

Q.: Go ahead.

A.: Well, then—it is pretty hard to describe a fight. Then I believe he said, "Well, I can't—I can't lick you, but I am a man; I will fight you." So he got up and we went into a clinch.

Q.: Came toward you?

A.: Yes, sir, and in the clinch I hit him in the eye about three times with my right hand.

Q.: Now, how many times were you struck, if you know?

A.: That I can't say, but when I got home I had two bruises on my face.

Q.: Well, now, finish up with the description of what occurred there in the house.

A.: Well, then—let's see—we were in the clinch?

Q.: Yes, sir.

A.: I pushed him away and I hit him again and he went down and he sat there, and just then the maid, Miss Lee, came up and stood between us and said, "You have done enough." She said, "Go on home. This is his house." I said, "I didn't understand it to be his house." She said, "Yes, he is paying the rent." I said, "Oh, I am sorry." I said, "Will you shake hands with me, Ray?" And he said, "No." I said, "Won't you shake hands with me?" He said, "No, get out of my house." So I turned around and took my hat and got in the car and went home.

ZONE PLAN VOTE PLEA EXPRESSED

Development League Asks Citizens to Help Owners on Beverly Boulevard

For the protection by zoning of the twelve-mile extension of Beverly Boulevard from Beverly Hills to the ocean, the Los Angeles Development League yesterday urged voters to mark their ballots "No" on Proposition 1 and "Yes" on Proposition 2 at the June 7 city election.

President O. O. Wyman of the league, in a statement which will be distributed to the voters inclosed with the sample ballots to be mailed from the City Hall by City Clerk Dominguez, called the voters' attention to the fact that Proposition 1 places in Zone A, restricted to single family dwellings, a strip 1050 feet wide on either side of Beverly Boulevard from Beverly Hills to the seashore, which, it is declared, would debar many property owners in that twelve-mile stretch from augmenting their income by erecting duplexes or extra bungalows on their lots.

Included among the thousands who have bought property in this newly developed district with this project in mind, the statement declares, are many school teachers and professors connected with the University of California and Occidental College, both of which institutions are to erect new buildings in the community involved. These property-holders of moderate income, it is pointed out, would be debarred from enjoying the full value of their lots if Proposition 1 were adopted.

As an alternative proposition, the City Council will present on the ballot Proposition 2, the work of the City Planning Commission, declared to be a comprehensive plan that divides the twenty miles of the Beverly Boulevard district into three zones, the largest being A, or residential, taking into consideration the interests of all the people and the needs of the University of California for student housing.

MRS. ROSS TO APPEAR IN CONCERT

Broadway Store Presents American Composer Today in Folk Song Group

Gertrude Ross, American composer, will be featured today in the series of concerts, free to the public, given by the Broadway Department Store, Inc., in its music salon on the eighth floor. She will be assisted by Annis Howell Robinson, lyric soprano.

American free-born and untrammeled by tradition, Mrs. Ross boasts of no musical ancestry whatever. The basis feature of her work is the naturalness and spontaneity of her musical expression.

On the program for today is a suite of early Spanish-Californian folk songs, harmonized and set for voice and piano by Mrs. Ross. Mrs. Robinson will sing the songs.

"In the early days in California," says Mrs. Ross, "the wooing and winning of maidens was kept true to Spanish traditions. The lover sang forth his devotion under the balcony of his senorita. Thus were created many songs in the troubadour style, usually accompanied by the guitar. Many of these are ardent love songs, at times sad with unrequited longing, others happy with the promise of fulfillment."

Also appearing on the program with Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Robinson is the Southland Trio, consisting of Cleo Rundall, violin; Marjorie Stoddard, 'cello, and Catherine Nason, piano.

Gem Thieves Lock Jeweler in Washroom

Jewelry valued at $1500 was taken from the jewelry store of J. Pudlin, 129 South Western avenue, yesterday by two bandits, who locked Pudlin in a washroom, according to a police report.

The first bandit entered and was looking over jewelry, when he was joined by the second. The two then covered Pudlin with revolvers.

Pudlin was in the washroom half an hour before his blows on the wall brought aid from a beauty parlor next door.

PIONEER OF CITY GRANTED DIVORCE

William David Newell, for sixty-five years a resident of Los Angeles, was granted a divorce from Dorothy Newell yesterday after a brief hearing before Judge Dehy. They were married in 1916. Newell charged habitual intemperance. Mrs. Newell was not in court to contest the case, but she was represented by Attorney Benjamin Lewis.

expected for examination: Capt. Bean of the police homicide department; Burke and Ryan, relatives of Miss Pike from Long Beach; Harry Sevoy, radio man; G. H. Compton, taxi driver who found the bodies in Powell's machine in front of Miss Pike's apartments; Mrs. Powell, or a representative; Myrtle Eaton, of whom Miss Pike rented her room, and others.

Sevoy, as an employee of L. M. Barrows, radio dealer, will be requested to relate how Miss Pike last Saturday directed her radio to be sent to her grandparents in South Dakota at once because she contemplated "leaving the city."

FAMILY COUNCIL

Three aunts of the girl yesterday conferred with the authorities to collect information concerning the case to send to the girl's grandmother in South Dakota. The three are daughters of the Burkes, who live at 1819 East Fourth street, Long Beach.

Mrs. Burke says she saw the girl only three times since coming here, about a year ago from Seattle, and that the last time was just as Miss Pike was completing a business college course and expecting to take a position with the Discount Corporation. At that time the girl seemed of a happy disposition, Mrs. Burke said.

The home where Miss Pike roomed for two months before she went to Miss Eaton's apartment was found yesterday, but her acquaintances there said she was a "quiet" girl and that they never learned from her where she came from or anything about her beyond the fact that she was working in an office.

From what outside sources the girl's extra money came, why none appears to have come in since early in March, and what prompted her rash act, if it were anything outside of a mental disturbance, remained unsolved mysteries in the case yesterday. She was unable to meet her rent bill, just before her death, it was learned, and was to be asked to move.

Examination of Powell's accounts with detailed information of Miss Pike's records of extra income failed to disclose any evidence that any of the money came from him.

"There is not the slightest indication that Powell's attitude toward the girl was anything but that of a kindly employer," Capt. Bean said. "The girl seems to have nursed a sort of peculiar mental infatuation for him, and when she saw that she was to lose her position in the office she became so worked up by the time he dismissed her that her twisted philosophy impelled her to kill both of them."

The Coroner's jury today will decide whether there is evidence of anything beyond murder and suicide in the case.

The bodies are being held by the Coroner, but are expected to be released to relatives after the inquest verdict.

GATHER'S VIEWS

An Associated Press dispatch yesterday quotes the girl's father as saying he can not believe his daughter either killed herself or the man found dead with her. "Margie was not the kind of a girl to kill anyone," he said.

A dispatch from Seattle quotes Mrs. D. A. Seibert, with whom the girl lived three years ago, as saying: "Margie was not the kind of a girl that shoots men, I'm positive." Like Miss Pike's associates here, Mrs. Seibert said she knew little about the girl.

NEEDS A CLUB

The fountain pen may be mightier than the sword, but Babe Ruth could never make a home run with one of them.

NOT CANNY

There's only one excuse for calling some of this bootleg liquor "Scotch." If you drink enough of it, it makes you tight.

CLEVERNESS AND WISDOM

The great trouble with this country, if we have any, is that most of us are clever enough to make a living, but few of us are wise enough to live within it.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Einstein, the scientist, says there is no such thing as time. Why couldn't it have been this Einstein, instead of so many others, who went into the money-lending business?

NOT WORTH WHILE

An economist says that if there is another world war it will be a war for food. Take it from us that the warriors who are now living on spinach will not put up much of a fight.

POSSIBLY RED LIGHTS

They tell us that the red corpuscles in the blood are increased by light. Is it the presumption that our red-blooded men are the product of the lights of Broadway and the glitter of the night clubs?

MAGNANIMOUS MUSSOLINI

The Italian boss must have been in an unusually complaisant frame of mind when he allowed King Victor Emmanuel to inaugurate the excavation of Herculaneum, one of Mussolini's own pet projects. The little King was no doubt duly grateful to the big power behind his throne.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

Men should strive for youthfulness rather than years. In achieving the one the candidate is likely to attain the other. So argues a health expert who figures that the habits which would permit a man to be of the largest service to his fellows are such as are calculated to promote long life. It is at least worth trying.

HARD TO SUIT

Some of these youngsters are so wild on their feet that they wouldn't care to go to a heaven that had no saxophones in its orchestra. On the other hand, there are some sedate citizens who could not imagine a saxophone except in the lower regions. Looks as if some of the insurrectionists were going to be unhappy, anyhow.

FADING BIRDS

A German ornithologist has discovered a species of bright-colored African birds that fade when it rains. Jungle food puts the pigments in the feathers, then the ammonia in the rain water washes them out. On the other hand, an Englishman took a drove of white sheep to Liberia, where it rains almost every day, and Africa turned them black. So it seems the Dark Continent deals differently with different kinds of animals.

CHANGING SEX

Dr. A. B. Stout of the New York Botanical Garden claims that avocado blossoms frequently change from maleness to femaleness during a single day. Certain blossoms that were males during the forenoon became females shortly after noon. As ordinary males the blossoms may have found it difficult to attract insects. On the other hand, with so much shingling and shifting going on in the world even a botanist might mistake male blooms for females.

BEING TEMPERATE

More work for the reformers. A writer complains because so many modern women are becoming confirmed users of excessive tea and coffee, of much rich confectionary and the lavish use of sundry soft but dopy drinks. He sees more intemperance in a barrel of sugar than a flagon of rum and says strong tea is more hazardous than beer. If some of the critics had their way the world would be living on spinach and boiled water. There is temperance in everything—even in the use of words.

WASTED HOURS

The latest Mayor of Chicago assumed his office within less than a week of his election. But when the Americans elect a new Congress on some burning issue—if any can be found—it takes thirteen months for the members to get into action. When the country was born it took a couple of months to assemble the election figures and perhaps it took a month or two more for some remote Congressman to reach the capital. But now that he can hop into a plane and fly from Los Angeles to Washington in thirty hours there is no warrant for delay in the political round-up.

OPENING THE CORDILLERAS

There is as much opportunity for genius in the improvement of established transportation lines as there is in the creation of new ones, but the restless genius of builders leaves the work of expansion and maintenance to steady-going executives and itself looks afield for more worlds to conquer. The romance of ocean and rail transportation has been stripped from the hearts of strong-hearted men of the type of the transcontinental line builders. The very sufficiency of the transoceanic and continental transportation systems has made them prosaic to Americans of megavolitian energies whose spirit spurs them to original conquests. But they need not stand idly waiting for new worlds to appear, for, even as the romance of piercing the ranges by rail is smothered by the clanging of 1,000,000 wheels on shining rails, the visions of air conquests rise to grip strong men's minds and set them planning airways that will be tomorrow what the rail lines were in 1880.

Commerce travels on the land and on the water, but travel in these two planes only is far from sufficient. There are millions of rich regions on earth that neither ship, steam train nor motor truck can serve economically. Consider, for instance, the cordilleras of South America. The rich valleys hidden in the Peruvian montana are too far west even to be reached by the 2300 miles of the navigable Amazon, nor are they touched by any of the waters of the Amazon's navigation system for all its amazing total of 16,000 miles of navigable inland waters. Rail lines probably never will be built into any of the valleys because the ascent from the Peruvian coast eastward is perilous and would be prohibitive in cost for railroading. Yet an hour's flying would suffice to land dirigibles or freight planes sent from the Pacific to the all but lost towns of the sierras.

There are Moyobamba and Chachapoyas, for example, lying far up in the Peruvian Andes. Men who have visited them cannot find words to tell the story of their natural richness. The regions in which they are located rival California in fertility of soil, equable climate and natural beauty. Water is abundant. Railroads or ships would make them famous the world around, but only air transportation can ever reach them.

And what of those 2,600,000 square miles drained by the Amazon and its tributaries? No one has ever thought of building railroads through those regions—now practically uninhabited though fabulously rich in many things used by man—because the waters of the rainy season make a chaotic flood of thousands of square miles. The Madeira River, as a witness to this condition, is navigable from its confluence with the Amazon to a point 663 miles toward its source during the rainy season and ocean steamers can safely ascend that far inland, but in the summer months only boats of not more than five-foot draft can ascend for any considerable distance. Ships cannot open up such a country. Rails cannot serve it. But ships on the main watercourse, augmented by a network of airways, will some day make of the Amazon basin one of the richest sections in the world.

When one asks why the young world is so feverishly excited about the development of air transportation the answer should be based upon its two greatest assets—speed and versatility. Airways will be the superexpress method of carrying mail, express and passengers at the highest possible speed over long-used routes; and they will also be the means used to make accessible treasuries of mankind that have for thousands of years been held in the lap of nature far beyond the reach of the thronging market places. Youth is going forth in airplanes to open all the cordilleras, to throw back the curtains of the jungles, to follow rivers that cannot be controlled and to cross and recross them at will. The doors of the wide world are gaping open for the airman.

EYE EXPERTS TO MEET

About 300 members of the California Association of Optometrists will meet in Avalon on Thursday to exchange ideas and discuss the most recent innovations pertaining to their important work. This meeting will be the twenty-first annual convention of the organization and is expected to prove of much interest to the optometrists as well as of value to the public they serve.

Unhappily there seems to be a growing need for the services of these experts in the fitting of glasses to relieve optical strain so common in these days when men and women ruin their eyesight so unrelentlessly and often carelessly. Then, too, the need of glasses, to which formerly not enough attention was paid by the young, has been stressed of late by physicians more than ever, as it has been found that eyestrain if neglected leads to many ailments which twenty or thirty years ago were not attributed to that cause, though they well might have been.

Up-to-date machinery for the examination of the eyes will be demonstrated at the convention. It will be shown that the optometrist no longer has to put questions to his patient while an examination is in progress. By a process of focusing lights he reads the condition of the eye as it is revealed on the rear wall of the optic organ. Examinations have been conducted on the eyes of foreigners unable to speak English and on the deaf and dumb as effectively as on those with a fondness for detailing all their symptoms.

Catalina is a snug little playground, as the optometrists will find on Saturday, which will be given over to golf and sightseeing trips to various parts of the island. They hardly could have chosen a more delightful place for their 1927 convention.

COURTESY TO WOMEN

English suffragettes want to stay the chivalrous impulse which prompts a man to doff his hat on meeting a lady. They wish to be on equal terms with men and, as the males do not uncover their beans for one another, they would cut out this gesture of courtesy. The men themselves do not care a hoot what happens. They are not disposed to be overly polite to the women that may have taken their jobs away from them, but they are not going to be fussy about it. If the ladies wish to be greeted as comrades they may expect to be slapped on the back and held up at some street corner while a funny story is being told. 'As a general proposition the female who doesn't want the man to touch his hat at her coming will have her wish. Men readily learn where courtesy is wasted.

THE CORKSCREW FOR BOOTLEGGERS

For many years the bootlegging fraternity has been piling up illegal profits untouched by the hand of Federal tax collectors. While honest, hard-working citizens were contributing each his mite or his million—as the case may be—to the yearly national revenue, the bootlegger was "sitting pretty," not only "his undivulged crimes unwhipped of justice," but his money bags also apparently sacrosanct and his methods for filling them exempt from government scrutiny. Because he was already outside the law he plumed himself on the privilege of being above it.

The decision of the Supreme Court, rendering the bootlegger liable to income tax, will knock a main prop from under his unstable seat, will hit him in his most vulnerable spot and, by a delicious stroke of irony, force him to contribute his share toward the enforcement of law and the correction of criminals. No longer will the booze barons and their satellites be able to flaunt their tainted but untaxed dollars before the desk of the internal revenue officials.

Never was there a better illustration of the engineer being hoist with his own petard. After the income tax collectors have finished their investigation the prohibition officers will have valuable evidence with which to put into effect the enforcement of the Volstead Act. And the larger the bootlegger's pile the harder he will find it to cover up his nefarious business. As his ability to contribute to the national treasury is reduced the possibility of his developing into a desirable citizen is augmented.

Ethically, perhaps, friends of the bootlegger may urge that to use information given to the government solely for tax collecting purposes as a weapon for a criminal prosecution is indefensible. But, by the very nature of his occupation, the bootlegger has placed himself outside the application of ethical standards. Nor does the Fifth Amendment, as the Supreme Court decision pointed out, by any process of stretching or straining, cover the case of defiers and breakers of the law. It was never intended to protect the criminal in the enjoyment of his ill-gotten gains. To declare that a citizen is immune from paying the taxes collected from honest citizens, because divulging the source of his income would brand him a criminal and an outlaw, is a travesty of law and ethics every right-thinking man and woman would reject, even without the confirmation of a Supreme Court decision.

SECRECY IN DIVORCE

British court rules with respect to divorce were so amended not long ago that reporters are now excluded from courtrooms where trials for divorce are held and the press no longer has access to details of such cases. This course was adopted with the idea that it would result in a lower divorce rate. No such result has followed, though the proponents of the plan are still in hope that it will work out as they predicted.

Before the result of the British experiment had been announced the State officials of Delaware thought the idea of secret divorce a good one and put it in practice. About a fortnight ago a Superior Court in that State granted nineteen divorces during a single day's session. As Delaware has a population of only 230,000 and is considerably less in size than Santa Barbara county, this looks like rather a large divorce record for a single court of that State in a single day. At any rate, it would seem that with what some might deem the safety valve of publicity no longer functioning, more unhappy couples ask the aid of the courts for freedom from marital bondage than they would if the press were admitted to the courtroom.

To stem the rising tide of divorce some means other than the secrecy of trial courts will have to be adopted. It would seem that to keep families together, as to preserve common friendship,

"Just the art of being kind is all this old world needs."

LOST ART

Radio may accomplish a great social reform by educating listeners-in. Heaven knows we need something nowadays to teach people to listen.

BEGGING RIDES

Children asking motorists for rides will be taken into custody by police officers and sent to their school principals for disciplinary measures, according to an order emanating from the Chief of Police.

This move on the part of the police department is timely and should receive the co-operation of parents and everyone who comes in contact with children. Soliciting rides from passing motorists is one of the most dangerous habits of school children today. The physical peril of standing in the street to flag an automobile does not require elaboration. By indulging in this mild form of begging children are subjected to a moral danger as well.

A comprehensive educational campaign gauged to appeal to the youthful mind would go far toward overcoming this bad practice. Children of school age are capable of a certain degree of reasoning and as often as not it is the lack of an adequate explanation from their point of view that accounts for acts not in accordance with the wishes of their elders.

NEW AUSTRALIAN CAPITAL

Unable to reconcile the rivalry of Melbourne and Sydney, the Australian government decided some years ago to make Canberra, in the highlands of New South Wales, its capital. The plan is something like that of our own national capital, though on a much smaller scale. There is a capitol, civic and other centers from which will radiate various streets, all of which are to be bordered by flowering shrubs and trees.

There will be great doings at the formal opening on May 9. All the big wigs will be there and there will be much music and speechifying. Ever since 1901, when all the Australian colonies were federated by the establishment of an inclusive commonwealth, the people of the land of the kangaroo have been looking forward to the event which has flowered in the setting up of Canberra and the handsome buildings that will house the national government.

Australia passed through dour times during and following the war, but has emerged as the only other country that enjoys prosperity comparable to that of the United States. That it may continue to progress is the wish of America, with which it always has been on most amicable terms.

NO HELP FOR IT

By James J. Montague

The lobster, when broiled in his shell,
So scientists grimly explain,
Although he lacks language to tell
The bitter extremes of his pain,
By the curl of his tail and the venomous look
In his eyes betrays only too plainly
His firm and unshaken belief that the cook
Is hardly behaving humanely.

The oyster, when swallowed alive,
Though he makes neither comment nor strife,
Can never be said to connive
At his sudden departure from life.
And even when plunged in a hopper and minced,
And plunged in the kettle for gruel—
The succulent bivalve is doubtless convinced
That the race we call human is cruel.

The clam, though serene and sedate,
Though no pitiful tear he can shed,
Can have little heart for the fate
Which awaits him when luncheon is spread.
One cannot observe that he shudders or shrinks—
Which gestures would only be futile,
Yet one has to admit that he probably thinks
His prospective devourers are brutal.

Now we know that, partaken of thus,
These creatures are stricken with pain,
Though they never make much of a fuss—
Shall we ever enjoy them again,
Without the excuse of grim hunger's distress,
Dear readers, it grieves me to answer you
"Yes,
We probably always shall do so."

NO ESCAPE!

BY FOOTHILL PHILOSOPHER

Early one morning I walked alone into a charming little canyon back of Mt. Washington school. My object was to escape men and machinery and the confusion of my own thoughts. Before descending from the hill I paused to view the lavender mountains, against the peaks of which the lances of the sun were beginning to break, and to watch Mother Nature slowly lift the white, misty blanket from sleeping Hollywood.

I decided that the reporters are right in describing these lovely foothill cities. "Nestles" is the correct word.

Slowly I descended into the glen, hoping I might have a chance to shake hands with a coyote, hear the quail call and see a bluebird and perhaps an oriole. Suddenly I heard a dog barking behind me and I tried to proceed with less noise. I distrust domesticated animals—especially dogs belonging to "sports"—for such creatures are often cruel.

Down into the bright vale I walked, unwillingly but inevitably crushing the fragrant life out of lupin, Indian paint brush, mariposa lilies and many tiny blossoms which, for the sake of sweet mystery, I hope science has never named and never shall name.

Always I have loved nature. She is so conscious of me and of my adoration. She never reminds me of sin and I could not do wrong in her presence. She fills my heart with snow-white thoughts and angel memories.

Down through the tangled wild roses, black walnut and mountain sage I descended toward the tiny stream that silently threaded its way along the gorge. There, I thought, "far from the madding throng," I should sit down and dream and forget the world.

At last I reached the bottom and, seating myself on a moss-covered rock, I prepared to enjoy my day-dream. No men, no machinery, no civilization here, I thought, and a quiet joy began to steal over my spirit until, glancing to the right of me, I saw, not ten feet away, the rusty skeleton of an antediluvian Ford.

There is no escape.

NEW DIRIGIBLE BUILDING

The Germans, proud of being the countrymen of the late Count Ferdinand Von Zeppelin, who created the aircraft that bears his name, are showing him the greatest honor in their power by building and developing in their own country a new super-Zeppelin—a veritable Titan of the air. The new Zeppelin, now under construction at the famous airship harbor of Friedrichshafen on Lake Constance, Germany, will be 104 feet longer than her predecessor, the Los Angeles, with a gas capacity of 3,400,000 cubic feet and a speed of seventy-five miles an hour. Some idea of its size will be gathered from the fact that it will accommodate 100 passengers with fifty pounds of baggage and fifty pounds of food for each.

While we ponder over this new marvel of the air, plans are already underfoot to construct a ship of 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity and 1000 feet long—a craft which, if plans materialize, will actually dwarf the German Titan of the air.—[Market for Exchange.

SAM JOHNSON'S REPLY

Johnson, who received £1575 for compiling his dictionary, had almost exhausted the patience of the booksellers by whom he was employed, and was frequently urged to complete his engagement. Andrew Millar, who had the principal charge of conducting the publication, could not forbear acknowledging the receipt of the last sheet of the manuscript in the following terms.

"Andrew Millar sends his compliments to Mr. Saml. Johnson, with the money for the last sheet of the copy of the dictionary, and thanks God he has done with him.

To which Johnson returned this brief answer.

"Saml. Johnson returns his compliments to Mr. Andrew Millar, and is very glad to find (as he does by his note) that Andrew Millar has the grace to thank God for anything."—[Market for Exchange.

A Testimonial

LONG BEACH, May 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] About five years ago I took a little flyer in some of Julian's oil syndicate units, and failed to "get my seed back." I thought after reading Julian's ads that Western Lead would be a good opportunity to cover my losses, so I bought 1000 shares of that only to see the market go down from about $3.30 to 50 cents and then the stock was thrown off the exchange as no good.

Now that the Julian Petroleum Corporation is all scrambled up in the courts, and there is talk of overissues of stock and that sort of thing, I am wondering just how many hard-working people in Southern California lost their nest eggs playing with C. C. Julian and his oil syndicates and lead mines.

People generally brag about their successes and refuse to talk about their failures, but I think it would be interesting if some of Julian's investors would spunk up and tell you just where they got off. Can't we have a little testimonial meeting in your column, "Letters to The Times?"

H. E. JENKINS.

Ammunition Furnishers

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Wells in his syndicated articles reveals his sources of information about America and its people. The writers whom he considers are ably portraying our common life are Lewis, Mencken, Sinclair, Anderson and Dreiser. After reading these eminent authorities he explains to us in his article published in last Sunday's Times that Americans are crude, know nothing of any literature, have no depth of conversation, extreme poverty of mental life and nothing a European could recognize as religion and no general ideas of any sort, etc.

These expressions of contempt are but the logical conclusions after reading the books, magazines and plays of American iconoclastic writers, now having considerable vogue. Wells's article ought to convince anyone that the lying renegades are not merely providing mental excitation for some of their readers, but are doing tremendous harm to the American people and their institutions. They are furnishing the ammunition for the barrage of foreign denunciation which is bombarding us from Europe and Latin America. Is it not time these American writers cease defiling their own kind and prostituting their powers of expression?

CLOYD MARSHALL.

The Separated-Married

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Mackaye-Kelly and other murder trials present forcibly to public attention the problem as to just what is the accepted status of the married woman who separates herself, not divorces herself, from her husband.

Morally and legally women of this class are married women, and there can be no question of one thing—that when they live as single women they are both legally and morally wrong.

Investigation shows that many "separated-married" women select single women as their chums. The single woman and her boy friend furnish the third party and the "separated-married" woman starts her single life along the rainbow trail.

This problem strikes at the heart of the social fabric of the city. It seems to me that every motion-picture producer, every exhibitor, every business man who knowingly employs this class of women acquiesces in the lives they lead and must bear his share of the responsibility.

Just what is Los Angeles' standard regarding "separated-married" women?

Shall we receive in our homes "separated-married" women who live as though they were single, who "party around" at night with single persons and in general pass as single women?

M. L. SANDERSON.

L. A. Athletic Club

GLENDALE, May 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The writer of this communication has read with interest the article in yesterday's magazine edition by Mr. Brininstool, whose historical writings are always valuable. The passing of the old Arcadia Block does indeed mark the end of a building that has been the stage of many scenes of tragic interest in the story of Los Angeles.

There is one error in Mr. Brininstool's narrative, however, and that is in connection with his reference to the birth of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. This organization was not brought into being in the Arcadia Building, but in the old Downey Block at the corner of Temple and Spring streets, on the present site of the Federal Building. The membership at the time of organization was considerably under forty, nearer twenty-five as I remember. Among the incorporators I recall the following: James Lankershim, Sam Dewey, H. L. Macneil, James Lancaster, Harry Seward, Thomas Strohm, George Conant, John Thayer, C. B. Prioni, E. A. Preuss and the undersigned.

TIED? NOT SHE!

Five-year-old Vonette was relating how she had ridden on the wooden horse at the village fair.

"And did they strap you on so you wouldn't fall off?" asked her mother.

"Strap me? Oh, no!" replied Vonette indignantly. "They tied the horse to me so he couldn't run away."—[L'Echo de Paris.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

The spacious ballroom of the Los Angeles County clubhouse was the setting of one of the loveliest weddings of the season last evening when Miss Jane De Van, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Shaw De Van of West Twenty-fourth street, became the bride of John Melvin MacRoberts, the ceremony being performed at half past eight by Rev. George Davidson, Mr. De Van giving his daughter in marriage at the altar.

The ballroom was effectively decorated with exquisite flowers and the aisle to the altar was bordered with tall candelabra holding whip candles and festooned garlands of white satin ribbons, flowers and sprays of blue delphiniums added an artistic touch to the effect. The altar was all white, with lighted tapers, but the altar cloth was in the delicate blue shades, and at either side of the altar were baskets of the blue delphiniums and white flowers, with a profusion of ferns.

The bridal gown was of white satin fashioned with high neck and long sleeves, a buckle of rhinestones and pearls in the front of the skirt which fell in draped cascades from the buckle. The veil of tulle fell in soft shimmering folds to the hem of the long satin court train, and was held in place by a cap of pearls. She carried an armful of white orchids and sprays of maidenhair ferns.

Miss Harret (Peggy) Quinlan was maid of honor and Mrs. Edward Dryden Thompson (Luigina Carpenter) was matron of honor, other attendants including Mrs. John Fredericks, Jr., Mrs. Philip Miles Chapman (Helen Thompson) and Mrs. Richard Stanley Greene (Nancy McClung.)

Their gowns were all fashioned alike of tinted lace, with chiffon petals at the hem. They were fashioned with V-shaped neck at the back, finished with bow of chiffon to match their frocks and long ends reaching to the hem of the skirt. Picture hats of lace to matith their frocks completed the dainty costumes.

Miss Quinlan's frock was of green tones, while Mrs. Thompson was in blue, Mrs. Fredericks yellow, Mrs. Chapman peach and Mrs. Greene orchid. Miss Quinlan and Mrs. Thompson carried armfuls of peach hued roses while the others carried arm bouquets of spring flowers in various colors.

John D. Fredericks, Jr., served Mr. MacRoberts as best man, and the ushers included Charles Eldred, Nelson Van Judah, Hugh Sutherland and George Craig.

Mrs. De Van received her guests in gown of beige tones, embroidered in amber beads, and heavy fringe on the skirt.

The supper tables were centered with white and blue flowers in dainty little flower pots, while the bride's table was centered with the beautifully iced bride's cake, orchids, lilies of the valley, ferns and tulle, and lighted by tall white whip candles.

Mr. and Mrs. MacRoberts have gone on a motor wedding trip up the coast, and after their return here will take an apartment until their own house is built.

Mrs. MacRoberts is an alumna of Marlborough School, where she is affiliated with the Lambda sorority, while Mr. MacRoberts's alma mater is Stanford, where he is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Delightful Affair

One of the lovely affairs of the day will be the luncheon with which Mrs. John Jonathan Hernan (Florence Gross) of South Shatto Place is entertaining at the Mayfair in honor of her sister, Mrs. George C. Reis of South El Molina avenue, Pasadena, who, with Mr. Reis, is leaving in a few days for an extended trip East. Covers will be arranged for sixteen guests and this is but one of the many affairs which have been given as prejourney courtesies for Mrs. Reis, who will be remembered here as Miss Irene Gross, daughter of Mrs. John Gross of Pasadena.

Castelar Creche

The seventh annual birthday anniversary of the Castelar Creche will take place this afternoon at the creche, 818 Castelar street, from 3 to 5 o'clock. This wonderful philanthropy, which was organized by the late Mrs. Michael J. Connell, is one of the most complete in the city, and is entirely maintained by memberships and donations. Mrs. Hugh Stuart is president, Mrs. William S. Hook, Jr., Mrs. Godfrey Holternoff and Mrs. Daniel Murphy vice-presidents; Mrs. Harold Brent Wrenn is secretary, and Mrs. W. William L. Valentine treasurer; Edward Dean Lyman, legal adviser, and Gurney Newlin, auditor. Directors include Allan C. Baleh, Dr. Ernest Albert Bryant, Mrs. Charles Gardner Bullis, Mrs. Leo St. Clair Chandler, Miss Marjorie Welch, Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, William Andrews Clark, Jr., George I. The officers and board of directors will preside at the tea tables and as each year birthday donations will be one of the features of the afternoon, as dainty envelopes were inclosed with each card of invitation, the donations this year going toward making some very necessary improvements.

The creche is not in the Community Chest organization, and cares only for children under a year of age.

At Arrowhead Springs

Among the Angelenos who have been enjoying an outing at Arrowhead Hot Springs are Miss Mary Cloud of 679 South Ardmore avenue, Reese Llewellyn and William Llewellyn of Berkeley Square, Chalmers Gray of South Wilton Place, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiner and son Harold of South Berendo street, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Payne, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Danziger of South Harcourt avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh M. Battson and Miss Alice Battson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. B. Adams of New York City, who have been passing a few days at Arrowhead, had as their guests at an informal dinner Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Peck and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McNear of Burlingame.

Mountain Cabin Party

Dr. H. O. Duncan, Trojan faculty member, and Mrs. Duncan, from South Carolina, were guests of honor over the last week-end at a delightful mountain party given by Mrs. Merle Alexander at her Sunset Canyon cabin. Among the guests all of whom are advanced sociology students of Dr. Duncan at universally college, University of Southern California, were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. French, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Miss Mae McQuillan, Quincy Cotting, Murran Spitzer and Mr. Kepler.

Birthday Anniversary

A garden setting was chosen by Mrs. William Henry Eager at her home on South Lake avenue for a birthday dinner honoring Mr. Eager on Saturday evening. Elaborately decorated with pink sweet peas, delphinium and yellow rose centerpiece, sprays of which were arrayed over the damask, the table was a lovely creation with lanterns of rose hue hanging throughout the garden. Places were arranged for twenty-one guests, each being served with an individual birthday cake toward the end of the dinner. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Dyer of Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. George H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thomas, Mrs. Mattie Davis, Clifford Davis, Mrs. Ross Day Pugh and Miss La Mollie V. Pugh of Pasadena, Dr. and Mrs. Glen Burbank and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Harriman of Long Beach, the host and hostess and their son, William Henry Eager, Jr. After the dinner the guests played bridge for the remainder of the evening.

Initiation Ceremonies

Alpha Phi Epsilon, honorary literary fraternity at the University of Southern California, will hold its initiation banquet and ceremonies Saturday evening at the Artland Club in the Fine Arts Building, with Frederick Warde as honor guest and speaker.

Robert Webster, president of the fraternity, will act as toastmaster, and the initiates include Pauline Allen, Lincoln Laws, Evelyn Thompson, Margaret Webster, Frieda Fischer, Vroman Darman, Edith King and Thelma Rear.

Arrangements for the banquet and initiation are in charge of officers of the fraternity, who are Miss Katnryn Baker, vice-president; Barnett Noy, treasurer, and Harriet Fullen, secretary, in addition to the president, Robert Webster.

A cheap varnish for oilcloth can be made at home by dissolving two ounces of glue in one quart of water.

A cloth dipped in kerosene will remove all grease and dirt stains from the sink as well as add to the polish.

The ordinary nut cracker frequently comes in handy as a wrench for opening obstinate cans and bottles with screw tops.

Two tablespoonfuls of olive oil at the root of your fern or palm ones a month will make a decided improvement in the plant.

Sheer Frocks and Women's Hygiene

New way safer—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THAT filmy gowns and women's oldest hygienic problem now go safely together is a fact millions of women are learning.

Old-time sanitary "pads" with their worries and dangers are giving way to the utter protection of a new way called Kotex.

5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits one to dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt. Also deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

TINTEX last year's faded sport-wear like new again

. . . . THERE is no difference between last year's and this year's styles in sports-wear except in color. And so if last year's sport-sweaters, skirts, scarves, etc., are faded or of an out-of-fashion color, Tintex will make them gloriously new and fashionable again.

. . . . Indeed Tintex will do this for your entire wardrobe, children's things and home-decorations, too. And so easily! Just "tint as you rinse" to restore or give new color to "undies," silk stockings, dresses, curtains, etc.

. . . . for tinting all dainty materials and for dyeing heavier materials, use Tintex in the Gray Box. For lace-trimmed silks—to tint the silk and leave the lace untouched—use Tintex in the Blue Box. See the Tintex Color Card!

Healthy Girlhood's Exquisite Complexion

A normal healthy skin is smooth of texture and devoid of all skin blemishes. Blackheads, enlarged pores, scales, pimples and red spots are repulsive and indicate negligence in caring for the skin. If the health and beauty of your skin is impaired by these ugly defects, peel them off with pure mercolised wax.

This can be done secretly and quickly at home. By the process of absorption the wax gently but surely removes the unsightly mask in small almost invisible particles, until the spotless beauty of the underneath skin is revealed.

Mercolized wax is a most extensively used facial rejuvenator. You will like it. At all drug stores and beauty counters. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.—[Advertisement.]

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

"My most embarrassing moment came to me on a street car, before the pay-as-you-enter age. The conductor collected my fare. As the car began to fill up, he again approached me for the fare. I told him politely that I had already paid. Soon the car became jam full, and the conductor, elbowing his way through the sitting, swaying, swinging mass of humanity, collecting fares, for the third time asked me for mine. This time my temper flared—I have one, notwithstanding that myth about good nature and fat. SHAD ROE AU GRATIN

Prepare and blanch the shad roe. Drain, arrange the roe in a buttered glass oven gratin dish, sprinkle over a little salt and pepper and a few drops of lemon juice, pour over two tablespoonfuls of butter, and sprinkle over buttered crumbs. Cover with an oiled paper. Bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes, removing paper within the last six minutes of baking. Serve in same dish.

FILLETS OF BASS, SAVORY SAUCE

Two pounds fillets of fish, one-quarter cupful of tomato ketchup, one tablespoonful minced parsley, salt and paprika, three tablespoonfuls of flour, two onions, finely minced, one garlic clove, bruised, one-half cupful of oil, juice of one lemon, two tablespoonfuls of butter.

Heat the oil, put in the onions and garlic. Brush the fillets over with lemon juice and sprinkle with salt. Put them in with the onions, adding the ketchup, two cupfuls of boiling water, and the rest of the lemon juice. Allow to simmer gently for twenty minutes, with a lid on; lift the fish to a platter and thicken the sauce with a roux made with the flour and butter. Stir well together, add the minced parsley and serve.

CABBAGE SALAD

Select a small heavy cabbage. Remove outside leaves, cut into quarters, remove core and tough parts, soak one hour immersed in cold water, adding a tablespoonful of salt and vinegar, and drain open side down. Thinly slice crosswise. Leave cut thick stalk. Place in a cheese cloth and swing it until thoroughly freed of moisture. Chill. When ready to serve mix thoroughly with French dressing.

ORANGE CHARLOTTE RUSSE

Soak two-thirds of an envelope of gelatine in one-third cupful of cold water twenty minutes. Boil one-half cupful of water with six ounces of sugar until clear. Remove from the fire, dissolve in the gelatine, strain, add one cupful of orange juice and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and cool. As soon as it begins to set, place in ice water and beat until light; then fold in three chilled egg whites beaten to a stiff dry froth. Arrange in a chilled mold lined with lady fingers, and chill.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

In answer to Mrs. A. H. F. Without quite understanding the reason for it there are children, a limited number, who can not take cow's milk in any form without showing distinct symptoms of disturbance. These may take the form of vomiting, diarrhea, skin irritation, or swelling of lips and tongue, and fever. Sometimes these symptoms will appear when the child first takes cow's milk but if the formula is kept very weak the child may acquire an immunity to the milk and will be able to take it later without trouble. Other children may be able to take the milk for several days before showing any disturbance. In these cases it is not easy to decide whether the child has a real idiosyncrasy to milk or if the formula is wrong.

There are several methods used to help the child overcome this tendency, as it is extremely difficult to feed a child properly the first two years without the use of milk.

Injections of milk protein can be given a child, to determine if this is the offending factor and then further injections of whey protein to desensitize the child.

The child can be given milk which has been boiled for ten to fifteen minutes on the fire in an open vessel. This may serve to remove the cause of the disturbance and the child can take milk thus treated without showing any abnormal reaction to it.

Babies can be given milk daily by the drop, well diluted with water. The dose, just as if it were a medicine or more aptly, a poison, can be given in increasing "drop" doses. In this way the child becomes used to the milk and establishes an immunity to it.

Such children should be fed liberally on cereal, vegetable, meat broths, and sieved vegetables, early in life. Sometimes they can take powdered milk, or goat's milk without trouble.

It is more than likely that if the process of de-sensitizing the child to cow's milk is begun early enough and continued cautiously, that the child will develop sufficient immunity to the cow's milk so that by weaning time it can be administered.

On Mme. Bergeron's New Facial Nerve Treatment—
The Vienna-Method Nerve-Toning Facial

MME. ANNA M. BERGERON

THIS special offer will only be effective throughout the remainder of this month. This new treatment, direct from the finest salons of Vienna, applied by expert operators skilled in these latest continental methods, is marvelously effective in clearing and firming the skin and facial contour. It is the only one in operation west of Chicago. Mme. Bergeron has combined it with her own superb proven facials and evolved a treatment absolutely unique in making the skin fresh, clear and velvety young.

Mme. Bergeron has had installed the same special equipment as used in Vienna and Germany. It produces a deep vibration with exquisite quietness. Very tiny appliances reach every nerve area, even to the eyelids, lifting and energizing each nerve.

These Nerve-Toning Facials are priced regularly at $5.00 or a course of six for $25.00. Take advantage of this special $4.00 introductory offer today.

Beauty Treatments That Bring You A Rare, New Freshness!

That's what Mme. Bergeron's facials do. They are delightful, rhythmic massages—gently electric—relaxing and easing the entire body with a sense of delicious restfulness. Instead of confining her facial treatments to the face alone, the exquisite, soothing, nerve-relaxing movements are applied to the neck, throat and shoulders. They begin with the muscles controlling the nerve centers at the back of the neck, thereby almost instantly releasing the entire body from strain. It is the only method known that actually re-vitalizes the minute facial nerves and oil glands, and on the proper functioning of these a fresh and youthful skin depends.

Mme. Bergeron specializes in facials. All of her treatments are built upon a scientific method of relieving nerve tension. They invigorate nerves and tissues, building up a firm facial contour.

Such nerve and tension relief can be yours. The rush and confusion of living in this day and age severely taxes already highly strung nervous systems. Decide now that you will have this delicious new restfulness. It brings dividends of good looks, renewed vitality, and the fresh, enchanting charm that comes only from thoroughly rested and strain-relieved nerves.

Phone VAndike 6916 today and arrange for an hour this week or next.

Mme. Bergeron's treatments are priced at $2.00, $3.00 and $5.00, according to the features desired. Special prices on course tickets.

CLUB IN FAVOR OF SECESSION

Hollywood Women Give Board Power to Withdraw

State Federation Declared to Have Been Unfair

District Action Proposed Also to Avenge Slights

BY MYRA NYE

Recommending to the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs that the district withdraw from the State federation, the Woman's Club of Hollywood yesterday went on record as giving its own executive board discretionary power to secede as an individual club at any time during the summer if conditions warrant. The motion to this effect was made by Mrs. William Mead, a past president of the club, and was carried by a six-to-one vote.

Mrs. Orville Routt, president of the club, was leader of a large delegation from her club to Sacramento, where the revisions offered by this district failed to pass. She presided at the memorable meeting in Sacramento lasting until early in the morning when the sentiment was strong for withdrawal of all clubs.

Mrs. Routt was asked by her board to make a statement yesterday at the close of the three-hour discussion, the afternoon program having been set aside to make way for the debate, and she reaffirmed her strong sentiment for withdrawal.

LITTLE CONFIDENCE

"I am not going to repeat what I said last week. But I will say I feel the same now only more so," said Mrs. Routt. "However if this club wishes to remain in the federation, I shall try my best to be loyal and to carry on the work as I have done before."

The vote was in effect a vote of confidence in Mrs. Routt and also in the board which offered no resolutions, preferring, Mrs. Routt stated, to have the action come from the membership.

The auditorium was crowded yesterday and the same intense interest prevailed as at all gatherings of club women to decide the matter of secession after the injustices shown Los Angeles district women at Sacramento.

Mrs. Routt stated frankly that she had little confidence in the new administration's desire or ability to bring about fair play.

"In my opinion," stated Mrs. Routt, "it was an unforgivable blunder to invite the State president-elect and vice-president-elect to be present at the meeting Saturday when the district gathered to discuss this question. The statements made on the platform at the Friday Morning clubhouse at that meeting, including the one that she did not know till she arrived that the indorsement of No. 28, on the November ballot, by the State board was a grievance to this district, compel me to believe that either the intelligence of the State president-elect or her honesty is in question. I cannot see how we can hope for justice from this source."

ONLY WAY OUT

Mrs. Lowell C. Frost stated that the condition in the women's federation was exactly parallel to that in educational matters, the north having always gained the better portion at the expense of the south in educational matters. She said she decidedly favored withdrawal not only of the Hollywood club, but all clubs of the district.

Among those speaking for withdrawal within a reasonable time were Miss Jessica Lawrence, a past-president; Mrs. Lelland Atherton Irish and Mrs. E. B. Latham. The latter said: "We are told by State and general federation officers that if we break away we will be at the mercy of political organizations. Now we are an organization made to the hand of bad politicians and bad powers. It is worse for us politically to be in, than it could possibly be for us to go out. Against every avenue of escape there is a fence drawn by the northern women."

Mrs. Alfred Bartlett was another who spoke vigorously for withdrawal.

"It is a question of the women standing shoulder to shoulder against our men of this Southland if we stay in," she said. "Were it not better to work with our men for the things that would help our district economically, politically and altruistically. I am strong for withdrawal."

Mrs. William Read of Los Angeles Ebell, reiterated her decided stand for secession.

Those who spoke against secession from the California Federation of Women's Clubs included Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley and Mrs. Charles Richmond, a past-president of the club.

Mrs. Charles McKelvey, who was chairman of revisions at the Sacramento convention and who suffered more at the hands of northern women, according to Mrs. Burdette, than any other delegate, spoke for the small club of Los Angeles district.

"The small club is torn between two opinions. It needs the federation so much, it can hardly exist without it. I plead with you to give help to the Los Angeles district even if you withdraw," she said.

SIX-CENT FARE RATES OPPOSED

conflict with those offered by the corporation the preceding day.

APPRAISES INVESTMENT

Using what he, asserted was estimated reproduction cost less depreciation, he estimated that the railway is entitled to a valuation of approximately $31,000,000 as a rate basis for determining what shall be considered a fair rate of return. The reproduction cost less depreciation and other items deducted by Dr. Wilcox's system of reckoning valuation resulted in an estimate by him of $35,295,115.

"The reproduction cost less depreciation as above adjusted is the highest figure that could be found as the fair value of the physical property under United States Supreme Court rulings," he testified. "That figure would give 100 per cent weight to the high prices prevailing currently and would accord no weight whatever to original cost. Slavish adherence to reproduction cost less depreciation is not required by law."

Sachse's previous testimony was to the effect that the most conservative valuation estimate the corporation could possibly make of its properties was $48,303,786.

ATTACKS COST ITEMS

Protests against $390,000 working capital, overhead charges, $15,000,000 going concern values, easements and other items included by Sachse in the evaluation were made by Dr. Wilcox, who also declared that in determining the rate-base the commission should recognize that the corporation has enjoyed an increase of approximately $4,500,000 in its land values.

That the railway company is not entitled to an 8 per cent return on its investment, as requested, but not more than 7 per cent, was another declaration made by Dr. Wilcox. The poor condition of the traction business in general during the last ten years was given as his reason for that statement.

Sachse declared flatly that Dr. Wilcox misunderstood the issues in the case and expressed an opinion to the effect that although the city's witness may have been sincere, he did not really do what he said he did in arriving at his estimates. Sachse stated that he felt sure he can prove his assertion at the coming hearing.

By a series of questions preliminary to the cross-examination to come, Sachse attempted to show that in making his estimates, Dr. Wilcox considered all depreciation in the company's property, but did not recognize increases, whether from increased land values, operating expenses or other means.

BANS FREE RIDES

It was also disclosed that the city charter requires that the Mayor, police and other city employees be carried on the yellow lines without charge. Dr. Wilcox said he saw no reason for this and believes the Railroad Commission has authority to order discontinuance of the practice. There were more than 7,000,000 free rides in 1926, he said. He estimated this reduced operating revenue $400,000.

By stipulation of counsel it was agreed that fares on the Inglewood, Hawthorne and Eagle Rock lines will not be raised in any greater ratio than on other lines if the interim 6-cent rate is granted. This was brought about by City Attorney Stephens, City Attorney Woodworth of Inglewood and Hawthorne and Attorney Sam M. Haskins of the railway. It was first provised that if the local 1-cent rise is granted the fare to the three points from Los Angeles would be increased to 10 cents. The rate on the three lines is now 5 cents in cases where commutation books are purchased.

T. G. Harris, special accountant employed by the Railroad Commission to assist in the present case, testified that the operation expense increased from 75.90 per cent of the Los Angeles Railway's gross income in 1922 to 80.40 per cent in 1926.

He submitted data showing that the rate of return on the investment, based on the 1913 appraisal plus additions, but exclusive of materials, supplies and working capital, was 6.70 per cent in 1915 and 3.24 per cent in 1926. There were fluctuations in the interim, he stated.

LOUIS WOLHEIM DENIES HE WILL GO TO EUROPE

Why any person should voluntarily leave California to go to Europe is a mystery to Louis Wolheim, stage and screen actor, who yesterday issued a vigorous denial of a film press agent's story that he was planning a European voyage. Wolheim, who created the role of Capt. Flagg in the stage version of "What Price Glory?" declared he authorized no such announcement.

GIRL WINNERS TO DANCE

Girls of Roosevelt High School under the direction of Mrs. R. Parsons, who won in the group and duet dancing of the finals of the Los Angeles district Eisteddfod contest Saturday at the Gamut Club, and who will receive their awards the 27th inst., will dance at the Shrine Auditorium Saturday. The program is sponsored by all the colleges and universities of Southern California.

DECORATOR GIVES TALK

Instructive Lecture on Placing Furniture Draws Interested Crowd to Manufacturers' Exhibit

Probably the most outstanding and informative event since the Manufacturers' Exhibit was opened in the Southwest Building was the talk made last evening in the display rooms by Paul Francisco Lupo, authority on interior decoration.

Mr. Lupo took actual examples of furniture and house fittings, furnished by Robinson Furniture Manufacturing Company, and by means of these exemplified his talk, which pertained to the arrangement and setting of various rooms of a household, to get the best effects in the placement of pieces, such as chairs, divans, tables and the like. His command of his subject and his standing in the world of art drew unusual interest.

PAUL FRANCISCO LUPO

Smith's band gave a concert and the Petite Four gave some dance numbers.

All afternoon and evening Los Angeles Art League held a reception and view of some scores of fine paintings.

A reception committee made all visitors to the third floor lecture room feel at home; there was punch for refreshment and a program of talks, songs and instrumental music. A constant throng called during the afternoon and evening.

Today at 2 o'clock Mme. Valentine will give a free talk to women only in the third floor lecture room, on "Take Off the Years."

The Bureau of Power and Light had planned two talks today on electric uses in the kitchen and the dining-room, with illustrations of the appliances for such purposes, but as the wiring has yet to be completed, this has been deferred a week. Meanwhile, all day today there will be demonstrations of various products throughout the exhibit. The De Mille booth, illustrating "King of Kings," is open, and will remain so for six weeks, with entertainment to be announced for set days, when players of the film and of the prologue will be present to take part.

CHOOSE STAR'S LEADING LADY

Joan Crawford Gets Nice Job Opposite Billy Haines; Metropolitan Will Produce Peppy "Chicago;" Richard Wallace to Direct Rogers

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

That socially active picture star, William Haines, has got to leave off the golf, swimming, dancing and cozy-corner fussing for a while at least. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have assigned him the job of starring in a film version of Vincent Lawrence's comedy, "Spring Fever," and he is to start work almost immediately, let his golf sticks rust as they may.

JOAN CRAWFORD

Joan Crawford has been assigned to play opposite the star in the picture, which won't give her much of a vacation, as she is at present engaged in playing opposite Jack Gilbert in "Twelve Miles Out," which will be finished just in time to let her step into the new role.

Edward Sedgwick, who directed Haines with such felicitous results in "Slide, Kelly, Slide," which I need not tell you, even if you haven't seen it, is a baseball story, is to guide Haines in his next effort.

Haines has made such a smashing hit in his two or three preceding pictures, creating a really new comedy screen personality, that "Spring Fever" is to be given every attention in detail.

Metropolitan Has "Chicago"

After all, it is Metropolitan Productions who have secured the rights to the brilliantly satirical play, "Chicago," which is having its first western run at Macloon's Music Box in Hollywood.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer were known to have been negotiating for the play, but it is Metropolitan that has won it, and work is to be commenced within a few weeks on the adaptation.

Phyllis Haver, will in all probability, as prophesied in this column before, play the leading role.

Will Rogers's Director

That international gadabout, Will Rogers, will arrive in town on June 7, and will at once begin work for Sam Rork Productions in the old Hoyt comedy, "A Texas Steer."

Richard Wallace is to direct the picture, it was announced yesterday by First National studios, where the picture will be made. Wallace has been having a lot of success with comedy making lately, and it is expected that he is going to make an excellent job of "A Texas Steer."

Rogers isn't to be let off with mere acting, you know. He is also to aid in making the adaptation of the play. Paul Schofield has been engaged to do the hefty work on the adaptation, while Rogers will help him in some of the lighter moments, it is said. Rogers also is to write the subtitles.

Actual work of shooting the picture will begin August 1, according to present plans, and it is likely that Ann Rork will play the young girl role, daughter of Congressman Will Rogers.

William Russell Signs

It has been altogether too long, to our way of thinking, since we saw William Russell in a part on the screen worthy of his talents — indeed, since he gave such a magnificent account of himself in "Anna Christie."

William Russell

So we were delighted to learn from Jack Warner yesterday that Warner Brothers have signed Russell to play opposite Irene Rich in her next picture, "The Outpost."

In this Russell will play one of these big men of the great outdoors, a role which also, we are assured, will give him a chance for some excellent acting.

Michael Curtis is to direct "The Outpost," which is Anthony Coldewey's adaptation of the story by Mark Canfield. Douglas Gerrard has also been assigned an important part.

Curtis directed Miss Rich in "My Official Wife," and lately made "A Million Bid," remarkable for its excellent direction and photographic effects.

Ethlyn Gibson Busy

Ethlyn Gibson, the blond screen beauty who recently returned from a trip to New York, has been signed by the West Brothers Productions to be starred in their new series of "Winnie Winkle" comedies, based on the cartoon strip "Winnie Winkle, the Breadwinner."

ETHLYN GIBSON

The young actress was formerly in the Follies, but took to the movies last year with excellent results. Billy West is directing her.

Carmelita Geraghty Heard From

Voyaging about on the high seas in a four-masted schooner is not recommended by the vivacious Carmelita Geraghty as a pleasant vacation. For the past ten days Carmelita has been marooned on an ancient sailing vessel off the shores of Catalina Island, the lone girl on this motion-picture location venture for the filming of "The Slaver," in which she is co-featured with Pat O'Malley.

Besides Carmelita and Pat, there were some forty sailor extras aboard the schooner for the thrilling scenes in this James Oliver Curwood story. Like a true mother, Mrs. Tom J. Geraghty kept her daughter company on the film voyage despite the constant threat of sea sickness.

Searching for Title

Apparently the scarcest commodity in the film industry is a good motion-picture title.

Right now officials of the Paramount organization are making a frenzied search for a suitable title for Richard Dix's forthcoming vehicle. In fact, they have even gone so far as to offer prizes to studio employees for the suggestion of a suitable name for the picture. The picture has been tentatively titled "Flood Waters," but this name will be changed.

CONVENTION DELEGATES DUE TODAY

Two Cinema Groups to Start Sessions on Sales Here Tomorrow

Delegates to two international sales conventions of motion-picture organizations will arrive here today. Business sessions of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization will open tomorrow at the Biltmore. The convention of First National Pictures, Inc., will start tomorrow at the Ambassador.

Sales managers from ten foreign countries, every State in the United States and every Canadian province are scheduled to arrive at 10:40 a.m. today for the First National meeting. Among the visitors will be Richard A. Rowland, vice-president and general manager, who is bringing an appropriation budget of $14,000,000 to be spent at the Burbank studios during the coming year.

This sum, the largest appropriation in the organization's history, does not include a number of specials scheduled, according to John McCormick, general manager here.

Delegates will be served luncheon at the studio today and will be shown several pictures this evening. Thirty-six sales managers of six Western States arrived yesterday for a preliminary session to make reception arrangements for the delegates on the special train from New York.

Among company officials who will attend the convention are Robert Leiber, chairman of the board; Irving D. Rosshelm, personal representative of President John McGuirk; Samuel Suring, secretary-treasurer; Ned Marin, assistant general production manager; Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager, and Charles M. Steele, supervisor of exchanges.

Delegates on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer convention special from New York will arrive at the Santa Fe Station. They will be met by studio stars an dexecutives headed by Louis B. Mayer. After all official welcome by Mayor Cryer, the delegates will participate in an automobile parade to Culver City, where they will be welcomed by Mayor Houck.

The delegates will wear large lion's heads, emblematic of the concern's trade mark. They will have luncheon at the studio and inspect the plant and new pictures.

Expect Gloria Swanson to be Theater Guest

The announcement that Gloria Swanson's "The Love of Sunya" will have its premiere showing at the Criterion Theater Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. comes from Ralph Allan, manager, who is making elaborate plans for the opening.

All seats for the premiere performance will be reserved. "The Love of Sunya" will be the first Swanson picture to be presented in Los Angeles since Gloria's return home after an absence of two years, and as a result, a galaxy of motion-picture stars, it is reported, will attend Wednesday night's performance to pay tribute to Gloria Swanson when she steps on the stage of the Criterion Theater in person. This will also be the first public appearance Miss Swanson has ever made.

Studio lights will blaze forth in front of the theater and clicking cameras will register the arrival of all stars. "The Love of Sunya" is accredited with showing glorious Gloria more brilliantly and radiantly than ever, and is said to give her ample opportunity to display her acting ability. The sale of reserved seats for the opening night only will start Friday.

FOLLOWS BABE RUTH FILM WITH NEW ONE

Wid Gunning is the recipient of congratulatory wires from New York following the preview showing there of "Babe Comes Home," the Babe Ruth-Anna Q. Nilsson vehicle which Gunning produced for First National. The young producer currently is preparing Milton Sills's next, which Carey Wilson adapted and Loufs Stevens is scenarizing from "Belated Evidence," a Liberty Magazine story now called "Hard-Boiled Hogan." Gunning is high on the First National honor list for his production, in association with John McCormick, of "Miss Nobody," with Anna Q. Nilsson.

"APPEARANCES" TO CLOSE

"Appearances," Garland Anderson's drama, will close after tonight's performance at the local Playhouse. The theater's next attraction is "The Honor of the Family," starring Otis Skinner.

"KING OF KINGS" GRIPS THRONG

ments, tenderly reverential as a portrayal of a story of unrivaled influence and beauty, and rich in inspirational and dramatic feeling.

AMAZING PICTURE

This is but to give a scant impression of what is really a masterpiece, and in that it is so far removed from the ordinary realms of entertainment, that it is likely to exert a tremendous and far-reaching effect on the mind of the public. To see "The King of Kings" once is but to scratch the surface of an impression that goes far beneath the surface. It is a picture that grows upon one.

All this is not possibly due so much to the fact that De Mille himself has produced a very amazing picture, it is rather that the story itself is so great that it needs no telling; or more particularly that the audience tells its own story, reading or to be more correct viewing this into what transpires before their eyes.

At the same time, "The King of Kings" is a story, and in its way perhaps even an entertainment though the word is a distasteful one to use in this instance.

Certainly much has been done to enhance its beauty, too, from the standpoint of presentation, for the prologue that Sid Grauman has devised is one that is exquisite in its general quality. The tableaux, especially, and much of the music, particularly an unforgettable chant, proved inspirational.

CRITICAL ESTIMATE

It is with obvious reticence that one approaches the production of "The King of Kings," from the standpoint of a critical estimate. In fact such an estimate is in the ordinary sense quite out of the question.

Such restraint, it might be said, was also to be found in the attitude of the first-night audience. The character of their reaction is not to be limned in the conventional manner, because it was in no sense conventional.

One can speak of the externals of the premiere as brilliant, for they were, but the same word "brilliant" would be ill-fitting if once brought within the theater, and this despite all the gorgeousness of raiment of those attending, and an elaborate dedication, in which some of the most celebrated people of the industry took part. There has been no other happening in this particular respect more important.

The first showing of "The King of Kings" was really observed with something closely akin to bated breath. There was applause here and there, but it was sporadic and uncertain. The general sentiment was subdued, not only during the unfolding of the film itself, but also during the intermission, and after the showing was completed.

It may be said that the theater, quietly lighted as it was, vanished by degrees for the ken of the huge audience. The glitter was forgotten. All attention was concentrated on the screen itself, as the impressions dawn of the Judea as De Mille has visualized this.

The first sequences of the film are in color. There is preceding this no title sheet with the names of players. There is merely a brief dedicatory statement, referring to the spreading of the message of Christ to all nations as foretold in the Scriptures, and stating the hope that the picture itself may prove a modest contribution to this end.

MAGDALEN SHOWN

The opening episodes are in the house of Mary of Magdala before her repentance. Judas is mentioned as her favorite, but has been absent. Mary is told that the reason is his devotion to a certain Carpenter of Nazareth, and with chariot drawn by stamping zebras, the gift of a Nubian king, Mary goes in quest of him.

This is perhaps the most De Mille-ish moment in the picture. It has much of that familiar barbaric lavishness with which he formerly bedecked his allegorical sequences. It is a startling and voluptuous contrast to the remainder of the picture, introducing the main theme in a rather sensational manner.

There is a long lapse before the actual introduction of the Christ. It is this first introduction is actually to my mind one of the most effective moments in the whole production. It is accompanied by allowing the audience to vision through the eyes of a child whose sight is restored the first impression of the Master. It is the most successful and effective result that has ever been accomplished in any drama of the Christ either on stage or screen in the first visualizing of the character. At the outset the image is seen as an effulgent light filling the whole screen, and then later as an actual person.

COMIC RELIEF

The portrayal is then carried on through the life and teachings of Christ, and the development of a plot in which Caiaphas is made to appear the villain. Incidents that seem widely separated in the Scriptures themselves are brought into proximity for dramatic effect. Particularly is this true of the tribute-paying scene, where the conversion of Matthew is joined with the "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's" and the drawing of the fish from the Sea of Galilee with the piece of money in its mouth. At this point, De Mille also rather cleverly proffers a comic incident of having the Roman soldiers try to catch fish with the same gratifying results as the apostle Peter enjoyed.

The raising of Lazarus from the dead, the incident of the women taken in audutry, and the driving of the buyers and the sellers from the temple, with Christ's refusal of worldly kingdoms, and his insistence on the spiritual crown are then told, leading to the culmination of the acceptance by Judas of the thirty pieces of silver for His betrayal, and the Last Supper. The first part of the film closes with the Last Supper, the light dying down by the cup or chalice. The Last Supper is without question one of the most inspirational scenes in the entire picture, because of the fine reverence with which it is handled, and the demeanor of Judas as contrasted to the other disciples which lends to the drama.

VIA CRUCIS GRIPS

The last part of the picture is concerned successively with the Garden of Gethsemane, the denial of the Apostle Peter, the trial of Christ before Pilate, the way of the cross and the crucifixion. In this scene of the crucifixion De Mille reveals his technical power at its most majestic point. There have been few effects to equal the lightnings and the earthquake which follow the death of Christ on the cross, climaxing in the rending of the temple veil. Easter morn and Christ's first meeting with Mary, the mother, and Mary of Magdala and His disciples are subsequently depicted, including the doubting of Thomas. The picture closes with an impression of the spirit of Christ against a modern city-like background, and the words, "I am with you always."

There is no lack of theatrical values in all this. Every event that transpires is fraught with dramatic interest, and the general cumulative effect is nothing short of amazing. Very strong, indeed, is the denunciation of those who would cast stones at the woman taken in adultery, when the Christ writes in the sand the secret sins of those who are about to kill her. Deep with power also is that scene where Judas in a worldly manner attempts to heal the mad boy, and is only bitten on the arm for his pains, while Christ is shown releasing him to sanity. Very deep with feeling are the moments of the Last Supper, showing the devotion of the apostles to the Master, particularly of Peter.

MOB CONTRASTS

Technically, I found the scenes of the trial and the way of the Cross slightly deficient in the mob spirit. There seems a tendency to let down just a trifle here, perhaps, where sweep was the thing most demanded. One expects to see stronger evidences of fury, but the sentiment seems divided, and that is not a mob as mobs are known to history. The way of the Cross is lacking somewhat in the lashing fury that would be typical of this event.

Strangely enough, both these scenes are in very strong contrast to the scourging of the Christ and the crowning with thorns, which is carried out with the utmost vigor, as is also the Crucifixion. The Crucifixion is the triumphal moment, because it so aptly suggests the paintings of the masters, as well as the vast scale of motion pictorial grandeurs that only come within the scope of the camera.

MOBS UNDERDONE

It is difficult to mention players in connection with this picture, and in a way it is unfair because of the fact that the illusion should be preserved intact as regards identities. It is amazing how well this has been done in the instance of most of the characters. One is inclined to forget the individual personality in looking in at the picture. At the same time, the interpretations cannot be altogether neglected particularly in such proximity to the world of picture-making itself.

EFFECTIVE ROLES

H. B. Warner is, of course, seen as the Christ—a fact that is widely known even if it is not mentioned on the screen. And though he is not the ideal type—nor is there perhaps an ideal type anywhere—he is in many scenes manifesly impressive. Particularly, I felt this to be the case in the Last Supper, the scene of the ment. It is a thoughtful, earnest and reverent interprtation in which the most serious moments are the finest.

There are many people in this picture—too many to be numbered, and heralded. Nor is it entirely fitting. I may mention especially perhaps Ernest Torrence for his interpretation of Peter; Dorothy Cumming for her work as Mary the Mother; the various portrayers of the apostles.

The Judas of Joseph Schildkraut is a work of amazing dramatic force; the Caiaphas of Rudolph Schildkraut, a skillful delineation of a difficult character.

Sam De Grasse, Victor Varconi Theodore Kosloff are others. Jacqueline Logan as Mary of Magdala is most successful in the earlier episodes; brilliant if not actually imperious.

PROLOGUE DAZZLES

The prologue adheres to a fine simplicity. Much of it is in tableaux form, and much is given over to choruses. There is also singing during the musical score by Hugo Riesenfeld, which score is itself a surpassing achievement. A harp ensemble is an effective musical addition.

The manger tableau, the flight to Egypt, the coming of the Three Wise Men across the desert, all add to the spell of a presentation, which truly exerts rare and exceptional spell over its audience.

A word more with reference to the theater itself. No prophet is needed to foretell the future of this picturesque establishment. Sid Grauman has a home for the productions that he henceforward will show there whose fame will be international. The house is a dream of beauty both in lighting and decorative effects—an Aladdin's wonder palace that will be visited by all who visit Southern California, or dwell here, as an institution.

D. W. Griffith was the master of ceremonies for the opening and introduced Mr. De Mille, and Will H. Hays, who in turn introduced Mary Pickford. The ovation for Mary was equally notable.

The size of the crowds that lined up to see the stars outside of the theater has never been equaled. It took half the police force and militia beside to hold them back. The throng stretched down Hollywood Boulevard for several blocks either way from the theater, and delayed the arrival of a portion of the audience until nearly 10 o'clock.

Favorite Actor to Play Here

LAUGH FARCE COMES TO SCREEN

At the Metropolitan Theater today Raymond Griffith in "Wedding Bills," said to be his best Paramount comedy, opens for a week's run. Eric Kenton directed this production. In the cast are Ann Sheridan, Hallam Cooley, Iris Stuart, Vivien Oakland, Tom S. Guise, Louis Stern, Edhar L. Kennedy and John Steppling.

"Wedding Bills" is a romantic farce in which Griffith is seen as Algernon Shuyler Van Twidder, a young man-about-town who frequently is drafted as "best man" at weddings but habitually dodges the matrimonial lasso. Van Twidder is called upon so many times to help usher others into matrimonial bliss that he decides to "swear off" being a best man.

Just after he has made his resolve Tom Milbank, a friend, comes along and presses him into service. But Milbank has other troubles besides his wedding plans. A blond vamp to whom he had written compromising letters demands a $20,000 necklace as heart balm. Van Twidder and Milbank go to a jewelry store, and there the much-called-on "best man" sees a girl with whom he falls in love, only to lose her in a crowd.

About this time Milbank's fiancee, neglected by him in his desperate effort to patch up the $20,000 necklace affair, refuses to go through with the rehearsal of the wedding. Her father sends for his secretary—the girl Van Twidder loved and lost sight of. All sorts of humorous complications follow, and the windup of this latest Griffith comedy is said to be filled with surprises.

Lenore Ulric Headlines New Orpheum Bill

Lenore Ulric, star of "Lulu Belle," "Kiki," "Tiger Rose" and many other David Belasco stage successes, will be the unusual superheadliner at the Orpheum Sunday matinee. Miss Ulric, by an arrangement with David Belasco, will offer "The Wolf's Cub," a playlet written especially for her by Willard Mack.

Hardeen, brother of Houdini and legal successor to the magician, is another interesting feature on the new bill. He will present many of the illusions willed him by Houdini.

The Mosconi Brothers, Louis and Charles, with their 1927 Dance Revue, are still another important offering on the new bill. They are assisted by the O'Hara sisters and Miss Gay Nell in their offering of "The Gigolo," a new dance. Marie Cavanaugh and Bud Cooper, Tom Smith, Naughton and Gold, King and Brown and Brosius and Brown are the other acts.

Versatility is Demanded of Star as Crook

The sensational dancer of the Red Domino Cafe; the headstrong pleasure-loving child of society; the darling Ladybird leader of the Mardi Gras crooks!

This is the role demanded of Betty Compson, star of "Ladybird," which comes to the Figueroa Theater Friday.

Betty has had the same fundamental training that has made such stars as Gloria Swanson, Marie Prevost and many others—the school of comedy.

Before her first success in "The Miracle Man," she played in seventy-five Christie comedies, and ere that she was in vaudeville as a headliner playing the violin.

Editor Lauds Technique of Foreign Film

"Aftermath," the National Film A. G., Berlin, importation narrating Eastern Europe post-war reconstruction events, is a striking example of the direct method of screen story-telling, in the opinion of Alfred Hustwick, film editor and title writer, now preparing the picture for its American premiere at the Forum Theater on Tuesday night.

"I have seldom seen a picture that tells its story with such disregard of traditional and nonessential planting as this film," says Hustwick, who has in the last eight years edited and titled more than 300 feature films. "Nothing could better illustrate the unique character of continental film product than this importation. So called 'smooth cutting' is replaced by direct movement from location to location and episode to episode, with such economy in footage as to yield a startling succession of dramatic developments that keep the eyes riveted to the screen in eager anticipation. No time is wasted. Every essential is shown without over emphasis. The spectator appraises events at their real value and loses the feeling of viewing a picture. Instead, he experiences the sensation of seeing real people caught in the toils of actual circumstances. 'Aftermath' is lived rather than acted."

Crane Wilbur Opus Will Be Belmont Play

Of special interest to members of the motion-picture colony of Hollywood is the announcement that "The Monster" will be the next attraction at Ruth Helen Davis's Belmont Theater following the run of Anne Nichols's farce, "Just Married," closing its engagement at the playhouse on Saturday night.

Crane Wilbur, author and original star of the stage production of "The Monster," is well known to the old-timers of motion picturedom, because of his work as leading man and character actor of the screen in the early days of the industry.

Wilbur's skill as a dramatic writer is evideneed in the many scenes in the forthcoming comedy-drama at the Belmont. Offered as one of the most decisive proofs of his talents as a playwright, is the manner in which he injects humor into the most tense moments of the play.

In the cast of "The Monster" will be, among others, Ruth Saville, Tudor Owen, Leonard Doyle, Virginia Duncan and Louis Dean.

LYRIC CLUB HEARD IN FINAL CONCERT

Members of the Women's Lyric Club of Los Angeles in their third and final concert of the season last night at the Philharmonic Auditorium won the plaudits of a most enthusiastic audience.

A feature of their program was the presentation of compositions by Los Angeles artist-composers with one composer having a part in the presentation of his own work. These numbers included "How Summer Came," by Joseph W. Clokey, with Clokey conducting; "Song for Waning Autumn," by Mary Carr Moore; "Japanese Lullaby," by Gertrude Ross, and "The Dream Shall Live," by Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson.

J. P. Poulan was conductor of the choral group and as usual was entirely master of the situation, while Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson was the club accompanist. Soloists were Nelle Coburn Walker and Francia White. One of the most pleasing and well received numbers was the Beethoven "When Twilight Weaves Her Gentle Spell."

The club was assisted by the Women's Symphony Orchestra string section, Henry Schoenefeld, conductor, and Helen Mead Little and Ethel Eberill, flute and oboe soloists. A group of three numbers by Schoenefeld were presented by the string section. Miss Little as flute soloist on the Schoenefeld "Serenade" gave as an encore, an unaccompanied Chinese number which proved a novelty. Francia White in her singing of "A Spirit Flower" and "Sunlight" was encored again and again.

DAVE GOOD SIGNS LONG-TERM CONTRACT

Dave Good, Uptown Theater maestro of music, melody and mirth, was feeling as good as his name yesterday, for he signed a four-year contract with West Coast Theaters, Inc., which places him in the ranks of the West Coast aces of entertainment.

The contract came as the result of his success in conducting the Revelers and the presentation at the Uptown where the screen attraction this week is Laura La Plante and James Kirkwood in "Butterflies in the Rain."

TRAINING CAMP IS LOCALE OF COMEDY

Karl Dane

For the first time since the filming of "The Big Parade," Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien are seen together in a film production. Both have prominent roles in "Rookies," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy starring Dane and George K. Arthur, which occupies the screen at the Million Dollar Theater now. The Dane smile is very much in evidence throughout.

SUITS AGAINST COUNCIL LOOM

Accusations Hurled at Long Beach Board

Fire and Police Salaries Fund Causes Row

Playing Politics Charged in Pay Increases

LONG BEACH, May 18.—A short life and a merry one.

That seems to be the slogan adopted during the past few days by the present city administration, which passes out of existence July 1. Defeated at the municipal election on the 10th inst. by an overwhelming vote, City Councilmen who sought a return to office, and who sought to retain City Manager Henderson, were the targets today for accusations of playing politics in office and possible civil and criminal prosecution as the result of their actions at yesterday's Council meeting.

Prosecution and civil suits loom, it was said today, as the result of the Council's refusal yesterday to authorize transfer of further moneys from the oil fund to the public safety fund for the purpose of meeting the police and fire department pay rolls.

Sudden announcement of substantial salary increases for employees of the city gas and water departments, after pre-election declarations that no salary rises would be considered until after July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, was another bombshell. Friends of the incoming administration charged today that the sudden granting of salary increases was a move taken by the outgoing Council to embarrass the incoming Council by shouldering on them the responsibility of meeting the salary rises. The Council's action was taken on recommendation of Terry Carpenter, gas and water department office manager, and City Manager Henderson. A total of twenty-one employees in both offices benefited by the increase.

Others slated for increases in salary were said today to have declined to accept them, and rumors that recipients of the sudden good fortune would be the first to feel the ax of the administration took much of the joy out of the good news of the rise in wages.

The present Council's action in refusing to authorize the transfer of any money from the oil fund to the rapidly ebbing public safety fund, from which firemen and policemen are paid, was explained today by City Manager Henderson, who said the present administration does not want to run the risk of being accused of "misappropriation of public funds."

The action was branded by City Attorney Myrtelle L. Gunsaul, however, as "ridiculous and uncalled for." It was pointed out that payment of wages to firemen and policemen is strictly mandatory on the City Council and was made so last August by a vote of the people. It was also pointed out that, soon after that special election, the City Attorney gave the Council a ruling to the effect that transfer of money from the oil fund to the public safety fund for salary purposes was entirely legal, and that the Council has been guided by that ruling up to the present time.

A legal battle to force the Council to transfer the moneys to provide for fire and police salaries for the remainder of the fiscal year loomed today when committees of the fire and police departments employed attorneys to represent them. Criminal prosecution, if it is resorted to, will be based, it was said, upon the fact that payment of wages to police and firemen is mandatory by a referendum vote of the people. It was also declared today that the State wage law will be invoked by the firemen and policemen in their fight to get their pay.

Friends of the new administration, which takes office forty-three days hence, were alarmed today over the sudden determination of the Council to boost salaries in certain departments and expressed the fear that before they go out of office the present Council may saddle several thousands of dollars of additional obligation on the incoming administration through the granting of salary increases with a generous hand.

City Manager Henderson today met the accusations of endeavoring to embarrass the incoming administration through increases in the pay roll by the statement that sixteen of the employees granted increases had been receiving $110 and $115 a month. "Not much better than starvation wages."

"If that is embarrassing to the new administration I am sorry. I have no desire to embarrass the new city administration. If I did I might work out a plan whereby, for a year, the new administration would have to keep a City Manager chosen by the old administration, but we will not leave them any such embarrassment. When we turn the office over to them next July, we will leave them ample funds with which to run the city," Mr. Henderson declared.

RESERVOIR AT GIRARD IS SOON TO BE FILLED

GIRARD, May 18.—As soon as the city completes the new forty-one-acre foot reservoir on the hillside overlooking Topanga Valley it is reported here that the lake will be filled with city aqueduct water. The lake will be used to give heavy pressure to water consumers in this district. In addition to this there are ten large tanks on the top of the hill to be used in emergency times. Several large wells in the Walnut Acre farms district, sunk to the level of the gravel beds, also are in use, as a protection against drought. Hydraulic engineers here and in other parts of San Fernando Valley assert that when Colorado River water is eventually brought to Southern California, all of the water now coming down from Owens Valley through the city aqueduct will be diverted to this valley.

DAMAGE SUIT DISMISSED

SANTA ANA, May 18.—The $20,000 damage suit brought the Alvah Buis of La Habra against the Lindauer Corporation of that city was dismissed from court when Superior Judge E. J. Marks granted a defense motion for nonsuit. Buis claimed to have been injured by a falling pulley while doing carpenter work on a sand bin at the gravel pit owned by the Lindauer Corporation.

DIRECTS ORANGE SHOW MUSIC

Santa Ana Boys' Chorus Sings Friday

Mrs. F. H. Beeson

Who has charge of large group of singers to be heard at Valencia classic.

SANTA ANA, May 18.—Their uniforms and program fitting perfectly into the motif chosen for the 1927 California Valencia Orange Show, at Anaheim, the Santa Ana Boys' Chorus, sponsored by the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, will provide part of the feature program Friday evening, the 20th inst., at the blue-ribbon fruit classic, it was said today.

The boys, ranging between 9 and 14 years of age, are garbed in orange smocks and many of the songs they sing, especially "Santa Ana, the Eden of the World," written by Mrs. Clyde Tompkins of Santa Ana, are suggestive of Valencia land.

It will not be possible for the entire chorus of 160 members to be heard properly from the Anaheim stage and for that reason Mrs. F. H. Beeson, director, has cut down the number to 130 for the program tomorrow evening.

Bruce Switzler, a member of the board of directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Santa Ana, will act as announcer and master of ceremonies. Everard Stovall, 13 years of age, winner of the piano prize for advanced pupils in the Southern California Eisteddfod, will be heard in a special number. Charles Wakefield Cadman and other famous musicians have said young Stovall has excellent chances for an international reputation as a piano artist.

YUCCAS IN VALLEY ATTRACT TOURISTS

SEPULVEDA, May 18.—A large area of the old San Fernando Mission lands, north of here and south of the Mission and Memory Garden is ablooom with yucca plants, some of the blossoms growing at a height of ten and twelve feet. Much of this area in recent years has been cut up into subdivisions, on which scores of bungalows have been built. Very few of the yucca plants have been destroyed in the march of progress. Hundreds of tourists passing through the mission district on their first trip to Los Angeles, always halt to admire the plants. In this section of Southern California the growing of countless numbers of yuccas is not unusual. Most of the plants thrive on the mountain slopes and in other inaccessible places. Yucca plants abloom on the floor of a valley and in the midst of bungalow homes and backyard chicken ranches are most unusual, and give an odd touch to the landscape in the summer twilight.

SONS GET ESTATE

SANTA ANA, May 18.—William H. Warner of Huntington Beach and Carlos C. Warner of San Francisco, sons of the late Charles W. Warner, City Recorder of Huntington Beach, are the chief beneficiaries of his estate, according to a petition to probate the estate filed in Superior Court by William M. Warner. Provision is made for a home and annuity for the widow, Mrs. Anna Warner. The will states that Mrs. Warner shall have possession of the family home at Newport Beach and $50 a month income from the estate.

Glendale Plans Discussion of Tax Valuations

GLENDALE, May 18.—Congressman W. E. Evans of Glendale will head a committee named by the Chamber of Commerce directors to discuss with County Assessor Ed Hopkins the asserted advances in the assessed valuations of a large number of parcels of Glendale real estate in an effort to have these raises adjusted before the assessment rolls go before the Supervisors sitting as a board of equalization.

Instances of valuations that have been raised on Glendale property have been collected by the Chamber of Commerce and the Glendale Realty Board, and it is charged that many of these advances are discriminatory, especially when it is charged also that valuations in the city of Los Angeles are not being raised to keep pace with those in other towns and cities in the county.

Assessor Hopkins has stated that such advances as are being made are to bring the assessments on certain pieces of property up to a level with those of adjacent property, and that no blanket raise in Glendale or any other city in Los Angeles county is contemplated.

VAN NUYS TO SEND BEANS TO SUFFERERS

VAN NUYS, May 18.—Within the next day or two the Van Nuys district will send a full carload of baby lima beans to the Mississippi River flood sufferers in the Southern States. More than $2500 has been collected for the purpose. Most of the money was obtained through the benefit performance given at the Van Nuys Theater of which N. Scheinberg was general manager and in which Legion members took part, and by house-to-house canvass for contributions. Benefit dances and other entertainments aided in swelling the amount. The entire campaign here was under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce of which Miss Grace Chapman is secretary. All the money obtained will be used to buy a full carload of beans which will be sent into the Southern States at once, Miss Chapman said today.

WORKERS OF ORANGE COUNTY WILL PICNIC

SANTA ANA, May 18.—The annual Orange county employees' picnic will be held at Orange County Park Wednesday, the 25th inst., Sheriff Sam Jernigan, chairman of the picnic committee, announced today. The picnic had been planned for next Sunday, but another date had to be chosen because another organization had reserved the park pavilion on that date. Another picnic will be held in the fall at which an afternoon and evening profram will be given.

DESTROYERS TO BE SCATTERED

Squadrons Eleven and Twelve to Leave San Diego

Will be Located Along Coast for Balance of Year

Also Will Participate in July 4 Celebrations

SAN DIEGO, May 18.—Announcement that Destroyer Squadrins 11 and 12, hitherto based at San Diego when in Pacific waters, will not be based here this summer was made today at Eleventh Naval District headquarters. The vessels are to be scattered along the coast from San Diego for July 4 celebrations, and then Squadron 11 will concentrate at Puget Sound until September 23, the announcement states. One division of Squadron 12 will proceed to Hawaii, while the two remaining divisions of that squadron have been ordered to Nicaraguan waters.

When the battle fleet returns from the maneuvers, now being engaged in off the New England coast, June 28, the local destroyer squadrons will proceed to San Pedro for a few days before going to their July 4 stations, according to the schedule announced.

Following the completion of the July 4 celebrations at the various ports of the Pacific Coast, the entire Eleventh Squadron will proceed to Puget Sound to be stationed there the remainder of the summer.

Two divisions of the Twelfth Squadron, 34 and 35, will not see Pacific Coast waters at all, being ordered to remain in Nicaraguan waters when the remainder of the fleet steams north from the Panama Canal, the announcements state. Division 36, Twelfth Squadron, consisting of destroyers Macdonough, Hall, Corry, Sumner, Melvin and Parenholt, are to proceed, following the July 4 celebrations, to Hawaii.

The two remaining divisions, Twelfth Squadron, which are to remain in Nicaraguan waters, consist of Destroyers Kidder, Sloan, Yarborough, Shirk, Wood and La Vallene of Division 34, and the Selfridge, Mullaney, Mervine, Robert Smith, Marcus and Chase of Division 35.

Burbank Pupils in Near Strike on Egg-War Ban

BURBANK, May 18.—As a result of a bombardment with eggs and other missiles yesterday when the seniors of the Burbank High School were about to start on their annual "Dutch-day" excursion, the senior class today arrayed itself in battle formation and prepared to smite the junior class hip and thigh, for the latter organization's asserted share in pelting the seniors with the hen fruit.

Besides the boys of the two classes the girls also fell in line and were preparing for the fray when Principal F. S. Moore took a hand in the strife. Prof. Moore laid down the terms of the armistice, stating that the annual class rush would be canceled, the jinks day festivities are off and that any student of either class trying to start any trouble would be suspended indefinitely.

The students threatened to strike when the official sentence was pronounced, but calmer counsel prevailed later and a committee from each class talked the matter over with the principal and ordered the walkout abandoned.

ACTION ORDERED ON NEW FLOOD CONTROL

POMONA, May 18.—Instructing City Engineer F. C. Proehde to prepare plans and to secure easement for the necessary rights of way, the City Council today definitely started the Fulton Road flood-control project, which will extend Fulton Road, near the northwest city limits of the city, to the San Jose Creek, and which will practically solve Pomona's winter flood problem, when heavy rains such as those experienced the past winter sent Rivers of water coursing through the main business thoroughfare causing much inconvenience and some damage to downtown store basements.

FULLERTON LIONS AT CHARTER PARTY

FULLERTON, May 18.—Officially welcomed last night into Orange county and fourth district Lion circles, members of the Fullerton Lions' Den, who shared honors with the Costa Mesa group, at the "Charter Party" held at the Orange county fair grounds, today looked forward to receive their buttons and other credentials of the International Service Club with which they are affiliated. Lions and their ladies to the number of 350 from all over the county assembled for the party, at which William E. Strei of Oakland, District Governor for the fourth district, was guest of honor.

CLASS WILL GIVE "BIG TIME" COMEDY

Will Portray Story of World War

Left to right—Robert Matthews, Virginia Ebert, Edna Schnaitt and Bob Swartz

HUNTINGTON PARK, May 18.—"Buddies," a comedy of quaint Brittany in three acts, by George V. Hobart, is to be presented by the senior class of the Huntington Park Union High School Friday and Saturday evenings of this week in the high-school auditorium.

The plot of "Buddies" centers about a detachment of American soldiers stationed in the home of Mme. Benoit. Babe, or Private Reginald de Courcey Pettingill, is deeply in love with Julie, the daughter of Mme. Benoit, but he is so bashful that every time he meets her he runs away.

The dramatics director of the school, Miss Ethelynne Smith, has been trying for the past four years to secure the play for presentation at the local school, but with the exception of the Kern county Union High School at Bakersfield and the Riverside Boys' High School at Riverside, no other high school in Southern California has been successful in obtaining the play since it was produced professionally in 1921.

When "Buddies" was played professionally in Los Angeles, Peggy Wood, who recently played in the "Clinging Vine," took the part of Julie, the little French girl.

POICE OF NEWPORT BEACH DISMISSED

NEWPORT BEACH, May 18.—Dismissal of Harry Riggs and Virgil Schwartz from the police department was announced today by Capt. David L. Adams. According to Chief Adams, the action was taken "for the good of the service." No appointments to the vacancies have been made and will not be made for several days, according to Chief Adams. The dismissal of the two officers has been contemplated for several weeks, it is understood. Riggs has been in the department for about a year, during which time he served almost entirely as motorcycle officer. Schwartz had been with the department about five months. According to Chief Adams, the appointees to the offices left vacant will not be young men. Both officers dismissed were young men.

PUSSYFOOT JOHNSON SPEAKS AT HANFORD

HANFORD, May 18.—Pussyfoot Johnson, international notable dry leader and lecturer, was the guest of the Kiwanis Club of this city at noon today and made a short talk. The secretary of the club gave due warning to all club members that only such jokes as are generally prohibited, dry ones, were permissable on the occasion, and a big bottle, with its cork padlocked, was printed on official orders of the day. The eminent teetotaler was in good form and was well received. He made an address at the high school during the day and at the Municipal Auditorium here tonight.

PEACE OFFICERS AT LA HABRA RESIGN

LA HABRA, May 18.—The resignations of City Marshal George Wilcox and his two deputies, Gus Shott and Lee Mendez, submitted to the meeting of the Board of Trustees last night, were accepted, and L. W. Bain was appointed City Marshal to relieve Wilcox at once. Wilcox and his deputies will resign officially the 31st inst. Wilcox was granted a two weeks' vacation starting today. The two deputies will serve under Bain until the 31st inst. Bain did not announce who would be selected to be deputies. No reason for the resignations were advanced.

FOUR FACE SERIOUS CHARGE AS RESULT OF HOME BREW THEFT

VENTURA, May 18.—The arrest of four Ventura men by deputy sheriffs on charges of having a case of home-made beer and other intoxicating liquor in their possession may lead, officers said today, to more serious charges following the discovery of an alleged stolen diamond ring and other articles on one of the men.

Those arrested and held in jail on the liquor charges and for investigation in connection with the theft of the jewelry are Louis G. Hathaway, 42 years of age, plastering contractor; G. D. Morgan, carpenter; William B. Carter, 37, oil worker, and P. Sherman, 30, plasterer.

While passing the Ventura aviation field last night, deputy sheriffs noticed the men on the field, and after investigating and finding liquor in their possession, they brought them to the County Jail. As the men were searched on being admitted to the County Jail, several of the asserted stolen articles were found on Hathaway, officers said.

Later, Robert Frabricus and A. J. Jorgenson, residents of Rainbow Court on Simpson street, reported to the Sheriff's office that the front door of their house had been broken open while they were at work and that a case of home-made beer, a diamond ring valued at $125 and several other articles had been stolen from the place.

The two men identified the articles taken from Hathaway as having been stolen from their house, but the diamond ring was still missing.

This morning Jailer E. R. Bell searched one of Hathaway's shoes in the lining of which he said he found the diamond ring, which was also identified Frabricus and Jorgeson as their property.

New Fee Ruling Hits Constables of Kings County

HANFORD, May 18.—The taxpayers of Kings county will be saved a considerable sum annually by the upsetting of a rule regarding constables' remuneration, in effect ever since the county was formed. These officers have been receiving the fees allowed by law and 25 cents a mile one way for traveling expense. Dist.-Atty. Ferguson has rendered an opinion, that, under the new law reclassifying judicial townships according to population, constables must turn all fees and mileage into the county treasury, from which they will be paid back the fees allowed them by law and 8 cents a mile each way for traveling expenses. This opinion is retroactive till January 1, this year, when the change in the law went into effect and constables will have to turn back all mileage above 8 cents each way that they have collected since that time. The opinion refers only to counties of the twenty-ninth class under the county government act, Kings being in that class.

YERBA BUENA ROAD PLAN UP TO PEOPLE

OXNARD, May 18.—Residents of the Yerba Buena district, in the southeastern corner of Ventura county, between here and Los Angeles, won a victory today, when the Board of Supervisors voted to drop the idea of building a $200,000 road through the Yerba Buena district to the new Coast highway. In order to give the district a chance for a road, the Supervisors voted to appropriate $40,000 toward the $80,000 road, providing the district would raise the other $40,000. The Supervisors have already set aside $15,000 for the purpose and are ready to put up the balance any time. Construction of the new road now depends upon the response from property owners in the immediate district. If built it would form a connecting link between the State highway on Ventura Boulevard and the new coast highway from Oxnard to Santa Monica.

PASTOR RESIGNS

FONTANA, May 18.—The Rev. Benjamin B. Knapp has just presented his resignation as pastor of the Community Church here, giving failing health as the reason. He came here two years ago and had charge of the congregation during the dedication of the attractive new church. He has not announced his future plans, nor has a successor been selected to take his place. The Rev. Knapp enjoys an extensive acquaintanceship throughout Southern California.

LEMOORE WINNER OF HEALTH CONTEST

LEMOORE, May 18.—The Lincoln School of this city won the grand prize in the better health contest conducted by the Kings County Tubercular Association, scoring 94.2 per cent. The prize will be a giant slide or some like piece of playground equipment. Prizes of equipment will be given to the following named winners of sectional groups: Oakvale, Lakeside, North School, Hanford, Eucalyptus, Mussel Slough and San Jose. The contest was a great success, more than 3000 people attending the programs at various places in the county, and it is believed will bring good results in the line of health improvements. The Lincoln School play, which brought them the grand prize, is to be presented in the Municipal Auditorium in Hanford, with health posters and various stunts.

CITIZENS TO HURRY CROSS-VALLEY ROAD

CHATSWORTH, May 18.—Further discussion of the proposed Girard-Saugus highway, via Topanga Canyon avenue and Santa Susana Pass, will be made here on the night of the 26th inst., at a gathering of West San Fernando Valley property owners. The meeting will be under auspices of the Chatsworth Chamber of Commerce. Among speakers will be Fred Noble and W. H. Prior of Girard, and Nat E. Heacock of Owensmouth. Several hundred persons are expected to attend determined, it is reported, to push the project that is to connect Girard and the Ventura Boulevard State highway with the Ridge Route at Saugus. The southern end of the big highway is to extend through Topanga Canyon to the sea.

WILLIAM H. NUTTING, MINING MAN DIES

MONROVIA, May 18.—William H. Nutting, 74 years of age, well-known Montana mining man, an for many years superintendent of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, owners of the Great Anaconda, one of the largest and most valuable copper deposits in the world, died at his home, 251 North Encinitas avenue, yesterday after a short illness. He is survived by his widow and son William. He came to Monrovia two weeks ago. Mr. Nutting was a member of the Mining and Metalurgical Society of America, and was recognized as one of the leading mining engineers of the West. No funeral arrangements have been made, but the body will probably be sent to Saltlake City for burial, no services being held here.

NEW APPEAL PREPARED

Counsel for Priest Convicted of Patterson Murder Ready to Take Case to Governor

SANTA ANA, May 18.—Counsel for Rev. Philip Goodwin, sentenced to hang for the murder of J. H. Patterson, Los Angeles bond broker, are preparing to carry their fight to Gov. C. C. Young in an appeal for executive clemency, in the event that the State Supreme Court refuses to grant the American Catholic priest and former vaudeville actor and playwright, a new trial.

The fact that the lines are being laid for the appeal to the Governor, has created the impression in the minds of some persons who have followed the trial closely, that counsel for Goodwin is not very confident that the State Supreme Court will grant a new trial.

From seven to nine months is usually required for a decision on civil cases from the State Supreme Court, Dist.-Atty. Z. B. West, Jr., said, but in cases involving death sentence, the decision is usually handed down within three months. Several cases heard at practically the same time the Goodwin case was argued, have been decided and decisions handed down by the State Supreme Court, but there is silence as regards the fate of the cleric.

RECALL ELECTION RANCORLESS

Calexico Business Men Propose to Make Contest Friendly Free-for-All in Which Many of Them Are to Take an Active Part

CALEXICO, May 18.—Declaring that it is their desire to make the city recall election here on June 7 a "friendly free-for-all," fifteen local men, a majority of whom are prominent in business affairs here, filed nominating petitions this morning in opposition to the five municipal Trustees whose recall is being sought.

In announcing their candidacies, the fifteen contestants made public an election compact in which they agreed to "accept the nomination as candidate for the office of City Trustee with the stipulation that in event there are less than three candidates for each office to be filled this agreement will be nullified."

It was also stated that personal animosities are to be barred from the contest and the positions of the candidates on the ballot determined by a drawing. As a result of this drawing Mayor T. J. West, incumbent, is to be opposed by A. J. Mercier, E. M. Beidleman and Thomas Anderson. Police Commissioner Z. D. Agnew is to be opposed by A. R. Hems and C. M. Higgins. Health Commissioner J. C. Graham is opposed by T. A. Eggleston, W. C. Jones and E. E. Kiefer; Finance Commissioner Edward Dool is opposed by A. S. Carr, J. C. French and M. W. Bates. Water Commissioner E. O. Burdick is opposed by S. C. Blackman, O. L. Petersen and Randall Henderson.

As a result of the number of candidates and the prominence of several of them, much interest is developing over the campaign. It was rumored here today that members of the present board had intimated they would resign before the election.

DEATH CRASH CASE REVIVED

Mystery Girl in Traffic Fatality Before Grand Jury at San Bernardino Investigating Killing

SAN BERNARDINO, May 18.—Investigation of the crash at Loma Linda on the night of November 21, 1926, when E. F. Hiller of San Bernardino was killed as an automobile in which he was riding with Sidney V. Horton, Jr., of Bryn Mawr, crashed into a tree, was today reopened by the county grand jury.

Ida Bell Hill, the mystery girl in the accident, who is now serving a sentence in the County Jail for violation of her probation on which she was at liberty when the crash occurred, was before the grand jury.

What bearing Miss Hill's testimony will have in the investigation has not been learned. It is known, however, that Miss Hill has admitted giving false testimony at the preliminary hearing before Justice George W. Holbrook last January when Horton was in court on a charge of manslaughter. The manslaughter charge was dismissed at the preliminary hearing for lack of evidence.

The State held at the time of the manslaughter charge that Horton was driver of the car in which Hiller lost his life. Witnesses at the preliminary hearing gave various versions of the accident, but none testified that Horton was driving the car.

The grand jury adjourned with no announcement when the investigation would be continued. Several witnesses were questioned.

BY MR. RALPH L. POWER

...Radio Commission is working ...money that broadcast chan... 550 to 600 meters, 1500 and ...kilocycles, are of equal value. In ...words, stations allocated to ...outside channels will come in ...naturally every receiving set. ...of several years' standing will ...show that the sets broadcast ...channel assigned in 1921 was 360 meters and all stations had the same assignment.

The first radio receiver was designed to pick up stations on this length, although, of course, they also covered a few on either side.

The identical sets also readily tuned in the stations on the next assigned channel of 400 meters and later the band was enlarged up and down the dial and receivers were improved to meet the new dial requirements.

RECEPTION BROADENED

The set of today is manufactured to cover a band from 200 meters, 1500 kilocycles, up to 545 meters, or 550 kilocycles. The sets have largely been designed to center on 360 meters and broadened to reach as far up and down the scale as possible.

In actual practice, however, they are not particularly efficient at the extreme ends. For instance, KFXB at 222 is a hard one to pick up, as was KFQZ when it was on 236, and stations elsewhere near the 500 mark are difficult to get.

But the sets do well with stations say from 230 up to 490 meters, or over a band 260 meters, that is, 692 kilocycles wide.

Within the confines of this band the commission believes that stations will have more or less equal advantages, but beyond that it is problematical what luck fans will have without improvement in sets.

CLEARING UP CHANNELS

So the new radio body is clearing up the central channels, relieving somewhat the former congestion on these wave lengths. And broadcast stations will receive the news, and or otherwise, next Tuesday from Washington. Until then anyone's guess is about as good as the next fellow's.

The KHJ offering to radioland last evening from The Times studio introduced a new artist to radioland in the person of T. A. Yagodka, composer-pianist extraordinary. Yagodka has written some 200 compositions, including symphonic, choral and chamber music; selections for the violin and piano, songs and other types of composition.

His radio debut yesterday offered his creation, Quatre Fantaises Orientale, consisting of Corevone, Nocturne, Barcarolle and Danse. Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, who was in the city recently, said: "Yagodka drew for me a real and definite picture in his oriental suite . . . his compositions are always interesting and arresting . . . I predict a brilliant future for this young man."

HIGHLY ORIGINAL ARTIST

Perhaps the finest tribute one can pay of Yagodka for his radio broadcast recital is that he is not simply another concert pianist. He is a sensitive and highly original artist whose technique and musicianship are of the highest.

Born in Warsaw, his debut as a pianist was in Vienna at the age of 12. He has studied and appeared in recitals in all countries of the world except Australia. Yagodka visited Los Angeles a few weeks ago and decided to make it his home. He has opened a studio of music and the local music colony will find in him a welcome addition.

On the classic program in the studio Samuel Furedo, 'cello virtuoso, offered a brief recital composed entirely of numbers by the late David Popper, Bohemian composer, whose works are among the most popular in 'cello literature. Furede's selections included the Souvenir, Majur Mazurka, Andacht and Hungarian Rhapsody, for the first three numbers of which Louise Miller played the accompaniment and Marika Kerekjarto that for the the closing selection. Furede, a pupil and later the successor of Popper at the Royal Academy of Music at Budapest, has appeared in that for the closing selection. Furope and in many American music centers an dis a regular entertainer on the KHJ Wednesday night programs.

The evening's vocalist was Harry Cuccinelli, baritone, with a pleasing group of solo numbers which interspersed the piano and 'cello selections.

PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN

The children's hour broadcast consisted of Patricia Eccleston, "Daffodil," in two readings written by the Fairy Godmother of KHJ, one of which was composed for Cookie Hamilton's Top O' the World Club at the General Hospital; Florence Suyuar, 12 years of age, dramatic pupil of Marshall Stedman, in readings and her teacher also offered a number for the radio children; Vivian Marple, "Blue Bell" and Viola Esen, "Bulgarian Baby," made their weekly studio visits, and Dick Winslow, screen juvenile, with some accordion numbers. Several weeks ago radio fans sent in contributions to buy the youthful musician a new marimba but so far the sum has not been sufficient. As soon as the amount totals enough to get a new instrument radioland will hear its music over KHJ.

During the children's hour and thereafter until 8 o'clock Smith's Greater Los Angeles Band, Walter C. Reeves, directing, presented their weekly concert of marches, novelties and overtures and Mrs. Corydon D. Smith played a xylophone solo.

The noontime broadcast, the usual Wednesday special program for school children, included the Pacific Trio, F. G. Aspra, Rodolfo Otero and R. Ramos, in popular groups; June Brandon, with contralto solos; Dickie Brandon, her son, in readings and the Ray O-Vac Twins in tinkling piano melodies and popular song ditties.

W.C.T.U. GIFT INCREASED

The additional amount of $2218 has been subscribed by the Los Angeles federation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union toward the $600,000 fund for activities of the State organization, it was reported yesterday afternoon at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce. Of this amount, $400,000 will be used for building and endowing a home for the aged and $200,000 for other projects. With the latest figures included, $118,000 already has been raised by the federation.

Virgil Martin, candidate for Councilman, outlined his platform to the women. Appointment of Municipal Judge Stafford to the Superior bench was recommended in a letter sent to the Governor by the federation.

CITY MAY LOSE COTTON TRADE

Harbor Commission Warned of Needs at Port

Better Compress Facilities Urged by Exchange.

Purchase of $100,000 Webb Plant Discussed

Approximately 180,000 bales of cotton now being shipped through Los Angeles Harbor yearly will be diverted to other ports unless additional practical compress facilities are installed by September, next, L. S. Atkinson, chairman of the local Cotton Exchanges, told the Harbor Commission yesterday.

The statement was made at a conference between the commission and members of the Cotton Exchange on the advisability of the purchase by the city of a $100,000 Webb cotton press. For several weeks a committee from the Cotton Exchange has been advising General Harbor Manager Cole of the imperative need of additional compress machinery. The cotton owners appeared before the commission to support Cole's recommendation for the purchase to meet their needs.

Atkinson declared that the present equipment at the harbor, owned by the Harbor Commission and operated under contract by Gerald Fitzgerald of the Union Terminal Warehouse Company, is not sufficient to compress cotton to the density required by steamship lines before they will accept it for shipment.

TEST CALLED FAILURE

It was also stated by Mr. Atkinson that the machinery is not practical enough to handle the cotton at the necessary high speed required by the rush of business during peak movements.

The experiment of the establishment of the compress by the commission several years ago was a "washout," except for the fact that it started cotton shipments through the local port, according to Atkinson. He said that the commission was poorly advised in its selection of presses and other equipment, which he termed unsuitable to present and practical needs.

Other members of the Cotton Exchange stated that the commission has a "wildcat by the tail," and something definite and practical should be done at once.

CITY FAVORED

As expressed by Atkinson and others, it is the intention of the members of the Cotton Exchange, which is asserted to represent 80 per cent or more of the cotton compressed here for shipment by steamer, to patronize any compress owned by the city, if all conditions are equal.

It was disclosed at the conference that last year the steamship companies accepted cotton bales of less density than their regulations require, but with the understanding that when the coming season starts only cotton compressed to the required degree will be accepted for shipment.

Failure of the city or other interests to provide machinery that will compress the cotton to meet requirements will force the owners to ship through other points, it was stated.

This would mean a large loss to the port in tonnage, dockage, wharfage and other charges, it was pointed out.

That the Harbor Commission is losing thousands of dollars annually on its investment in compress machinery and cotton warehouse facilities, was pointed out by Commissioner Souden. He stated that when the Harbor Commission operated the compress itself in 1920-1921, the loss was $81,000. Under the present contract with Fitzgerald, the loss in 1926-1927 was $141,000, Commissioner Souden stated.

REFUSES TO ANSWER

The commissioner told Fitzgerald that the contract is inequitable to the city. The contract requires the city to give Fitzgerald one year's notice before it can be broken. Commissioner Souden asked Fitzgerald if, in view of the present circumstances, he would be willing to alter or cancel the contract without the year's notice. He also asked Fitzgerald, who has exclusive right to use the present equipment, if he would expect to have the same right over any other machinery the Harbor Commission might purchase and locate in another section of the harbor. Fitzgerald declined to answer the questions until he has more time to consider them.

President Allen of the Commission asked the cotton men if they would consider leasing the present compress machinery and storage space from the city at a nominal rental and then install their own additional equipment and operate the entire business themselves, if such arrangements could be made.

Atkinson replied that it would be necessary for those present to confer with others before giving an answer. He said that reports of the proposed location of other compresses in the harbor district might influence their decision. It was decided that the entire problem will be discussed at a private conference at 9 a.m. this morning in the Harbor Department's Los Angeles headquarters.

Commissioner Souden declared that it is the policy of the commission to protect the cotton trade and obtain as large a volume of business as possible for the local port. He said that it is not the policy of the commission to compete in the compress business if independent interests can and will provide facilities and keep rates low enough to insure shipments through the local port.

Abandonment of Beach Line Still in Question

Whether the Pacific Electric Company will abandon its line between Huntington Beach and Santa Ana is still in question, according to D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the company yesterday.

The line has not been in use as a through line for the last two years, Mr. Pontius said. Rains during the winter caused a number of washouts which were said by engineers to be beyond repair.

Members of the Huntington Beach Realty Board are endeavoring to obtain several crossings over the Pacific Electric tracks to give the east side of the city a direct opening on to the coast highway. Mrs. Marie J. Weiner is head of the road committee.

THRASHER MEETS WATERLOO

Fisherman Brings Proof of This Tale

Note That Seven-Foot Tail Fin

FISH stories of the San Pedro fleet all were thrown into the discard yesterday when the twenty-two foot Miss San Pedro came chugging into the Municipal Fish Dock with a fifteen-foot thrasher shark aboard.

The monster, which weighed 705 pounds, was still very much alive and despite the fact that Capt. Sam Paris, cook, captain and crew of the tiny boat had managed to lash his catch to the deck, the shark's efforts to get free nearly capsized the craft.

Fishermen declared the shark to be the largest of its species ever caught in Southern California waters. The thrasher shark is so named because it uses its extraordinarily long upper tail fin to "thrash" whales to death. The "thrasher fin" of the whale caught by Capt. Paris was seven feet, three inches in length.

The thrasher was sold to Jack De Luca, of the Los Angeles Fish and Oyster Company, who delivered it to a Long Beach museum. A bonita shark weighing 250 pounds was also brought in yesterday.

Capt. Paris caught the big shark in his nets while fishing for rock bass off Portuguese Bend. Asked how he managed to get the monster aboard his tiny boat, he said:

"Gosh! I been tryin' to figger it out myself. I dragged in the net and there he was pounding the boat to pieces. I was floundering around trying to get him out of the net and the next thing I knew he was bouncing around on board. The only way I could save the boat was to tie him down."

Ryndam Faculty Member Returns From Long Tour

Friends and associates of Miss Edith Weir, head of the appointment Bureau of the University of Southern California, welcomed her back yesterday when she returned after an eight months' educational trip on the S.S. Ryndam, the floating college sponsored by the University Travel Association of New York City, on which Miss Weir served as faculty member on its initial venture.

MISS EDITH WEIR

Miss Weir returned to her post immediately on arriving in New York Harbor, in order to aid the June graduates in obtaining positions through the Trojan appointment bureau. Two other members of the U.S.C. teaching staff, Miss Edith Johnson of the Spanish department, and Prof. Lynn Clark of the English department, are back in the States, but visiting en route to Los Angeles.

Lottery Tickets Captured in Car After Hot Chase

Victor Signolle, 33 years of age, and Ramon Melchor, 46, were arrested yesterday in possession of a car that contained 50,000 tickets for the Baja California government lottery, according to the report of Officers Seagrave and Blazier. The men were booked at Lincoln Heights station as suspected of grand larceny and of smuggling.

A chase of several miles through city streets ended in the capture, the officers said. The car driven by the men, the officers say, answers the description of one sought by customs officials. It was said charges against both men are pending in San Diego.

MARRIAGE ON ROCKS

Film Company Secretary and Wife Separated Half Year

William Holman, secretary of the Christie Film Corporation, and his wife, Helen T. Holman, have been separated for more than six months, it was learned yesterday, when Mrs. Holman returned to this city from Phoenix, Ariz., to consult with attorneys about divorce proceedings.

No reason for the marital disagreement was advanced by Holman or his wife. They stated the marriage was a failure and was ended last fall by mutual consent. The Holmans were married in 1924.

PASADENAN PURCHASES HILL RESORT

L. B. Austin Heads Group Which Obtains Control of Tamarack Lodge

A deal by which Tamarack Lodge, one of the most noted summer resorts in the West, passes into the control of a group headed by Lloyd B. Austin of Pasadena, widely known resort operator, was announced yesterday by Mr. Austin. The resort for many years has been owned and operated by Miss Mary E. Foy, who exchanged it for a large ranch in the San Joaquin Valley near Tulare, owned by C. W. Bowen, one of Austin's associates in the transaction. The new owners have taken possession, according to the announcement.

Austin for more than fifteen years has owned and operated Switzerland, a resort back of Pasadena, and he will continue to manage both resorts, he said. Under the management of Miss Foy, Tamarack Lodge attracted summer tourists from all over the United States.

On the 15th inst., snow stood four feet deep in the region of the resort, which is a record for many years at this season, according to persons familiar with the locality. An automobile road extends to the door of the lodge and it is believed the road will be open all the way to Twin Lakes by Memorial Day. Rangers, however, predict that fishing and hunting pack trains will be open to the higher regions by late in July.

CONTEMPT CASE HALTS

Court Enjoins State Railroad Board in Adams Hearing

A temporary injunction restraining the State Railroad Commission from proceeding against B. G. Adams on a charge of contempt was granted yesterday by United States District Judge James. The commission was given until the 27th inst. to show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

Adams was granted the temporary injunction after the State Railroad Commission had cited him for contempt for his failure to return to water users in the Figueroa Heights district a $15 tap fee. Adams, owner of the Vermont Water Company, supplies water to a number of residents in the South Figueroa district. His charge of $15 as a service fee from each water user was recently opposed by the commission which ordered Adams to return the money. This Adams refused to do and was cited for contempt.

Eat Yeast in Delicious Meals

Here is yeast, pure yeast—the inner kernel—no yeast taste and in delicious form, as a food, for soups, bouillons, gravies, salads, sandwiches or a bracing hot drink. A meaty nut-like flavor.

Put vitality, vigor, health in your meals with VEGEX, the vitalized yeast extract. VEGEX is the life kernels of yeast with the cell walls removed. You eat the inner protein, a delicate flavor similar to rich meats—yet purely vegetable. It is the richest known food in Vitamin B now known to be absolutely essential to health.

FIGS. 169-172—Yeast; 168, yeast cell; 169, 170, cells budding; 171, 172, spread skins; 173, cell containing four spores. —169-171, after Prof. COULTER; 172, after Prof. REED, both of the Botany Department, University of Chicago.

To secure VEGEX, these cells are broken down; the cell walls are removed by adding mineral salts and only the life kernel of pure vegetable protein remains. VEGEX thus is yeast without the cellulose cell walls plus mineral salts essential to life.

Are you nervous, tired, or lacking in ambition? VEGEX brings back youthful energy and vigor, increases mental and physical capacity.

Are you troubled with constipation? VEGEX in foods ends constipation.

Is your appetite lacking? Try VEGEX a few days and note the improvement.

It is so easy to give your body all the Vitamin B it must have for perfect health. Just add a bit of VEGEX to your food. In a very short time results are apparent. And not only does VEGEX supply the vitamin B and precious mineral salts so indispensable to health, VEGEX makes food more appetizing and delicious.

Even the most ordinary dishes are made appetizing with VEGEX. VEGEX adds richness and flavor. Warmed-over dishes take on a new freshness. VEGEX also makes a bracing delightful hot drink.

Try some of the VEGEX recipes contained in the FREE book "Food and Life" (See Special Offer) and notice the improved flavor VEGEX brings to food. Notice the total absence of any yeast taste. Remember VEGEX is not a medicine, it is food, a delicious food, that brings new health and vitality to all the family.

MISS HELEN TALKS

"I have a big job on my hands. The boss made his annual visit the other day and counted up just 777 pianos that were very much in the way. He said: 'Helen, I'll just give you 3 times 7 days, 21 days all told, to clean up the pianos and rapid stock in this big 10-story storage warehouse.' Yes! Boss," said I, "that's some task you have given me, but out for poor little me, just a little bit of a girl, to sell, rent or dispose of in some old way. 777 pianos, by way of beginning of over 1000 radios, by 'Well, said the boss, 'I will make it easy for you by making easy terms for the good people in your district and by cutting prices on the best stock of pianos and radios so that you will have a regular landslide getting the big stock of musical instruments. So here goes, folks. If you ever expect to buy a piano, just drop down at once and make your selection. New and used models, hundreds of the world's best makes. Practice pianos as low as $10, $12 and $15. Oh, Boy! And such prices on player pianos. Prices start at $65 on the players, and terms that satisfy baby grand pianos, little beauties that will capture the eye of any girl longing for a baby grand. Well, you ought to pay all cash, but just to move the big stock in jig time, you can buy a piano for $10 down and $10 monthly. Deal guaranteed. Here's a swell tip for dealers. Come on, bring down your drays and load up. I tell you, good friends of pianos out of this big 10-story storage warehouse, but the carnival supreme is in player pianos here. Jane Brides, take notice. Start life right. Put some music in the home. Sure, we are a little sorry to see the way-down prices going to save hundreds of dollars if you will take time to come down to see me. I've got a big job, folks, and must knock their stuff. No fancy fixings down this way; we will just dish out the bargains to the good old-fashioned way. Come to see me at! Ask for Miss Helen. How to get here—take E. W. or 3 car, get off at Alpine and N. Broadway, walk one block east to the big 10-story storage warehouse, 809 N. Spring St. Loads of parking space for your Ford or Cadillac. No time limit for parking. Phone MU. 1441."

OPTOMETRISTS' CHIEFS GATHER

Presidents' Council Holds Preparation Meeting

State Convention to Open in Avalon Tomorrow

Formation of Auxiliary to Aid Children Announced

Virtually all the fifty or more organization executives of the California Association of Optometrists were in the city yesterday in preparation for the twenty-first annual convention of the society, which opens tomorrow at noon in Avalon. The first official convention meeting was held last night in the Masonic Club, when President Charles B. Hobrecht of San Francisco surrounded himself with his council to review in advance the work of the convention.

Dr. Hobrecht announced the formation of a women's auxiliary which will make a campaign for the early examination of children's eyes, so that optical defects may be corrected when they are easily remedied. The wives, mothers and sisters of optometrists, he said, have been working without organization along these lines and should now be organized to carry on the work.

DOCTORS NAMED

He named Dr. Irma Kasten, Dr. Lillian Grandmason, Dr. Arene I. Wranitzky and Dr. Clara Bell Zglinsky of Los Angeles, Dr. Ruth T. Rogers, San Jose and Dr. Henrietta Grosso, Oakland, to form such an organization.

Among those who attended the presidential council meeting were Carl A. Berntsen of San Francisco, executive secretary; Fred F. T. Watson of Oakland, treasurer; and Dr. Arthur E. Hoare of Los Angeles, vice-president. Bringing the number to more than a score, the session also was attended by all presidents of county associations, including Dr. C. M. Stevenson of Los Angeles.

LATE ARRIVALS

President Hobrecht again will be in the chair tomorrow at noon, to order the convention into session. The program as announced will dwell on maintenance of eye health, bifocal problems, the adoption of a new constitution for the association and new efficiency lens standards.

Optometrists are expected to arrive in scores by the several rail lines and by boat and auto this morning. Plans are perfected for rushing them to Wilmington immediately on their reaching the city, when they will be taken to Avalon in time for registration before the convention sessions begin.

Another Dead of Injuries in Auto Collision

Edward Heyes, 59 years of age, well-known resident of Culver City, died in Ontario Hospital late yesterday following injuries received in an auto accident between Ontario and Cucomongo on the 16th inst. A son, Harry, 31 years of age, died Tuesday from injuries received in the same accident. Mrs. Heyes and a daughter, Dorothy, were also injured, but will recover. Another son, Vital, and a daughter, Mrs. Bernard Geissler, who were following in another car, were uninjured.

The family was returning from Palm Springs when their car collided with a machine driven by Gus Knight of San Bernardino.

Edward Heyes, who was born in England, came to Los Angeles thirty-five years ago. He lived in the Lincoln Heights district until a few years ago, when he moved with his family to Culver City. He was organist in St. Augustine's Church, Culver City. The body is at the Alvarez and Moore funeral parlors. Services will probably be conducted today or tomorrow.

COURT SETS HEARING FOR FRAUD SUSPECT

COUPLE CHARGE L. J. KIRWIN SOLD THEIR STOCKS AND RETAINED MONEY

Charged with defrauding Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenwaldt, 421 South Raymond avenue, of $600 worth of stock in the Palos Chica Company on April 8, last, L. J. Kirwin was arraigned yesterday in the court of Municipal Judge Ballard. The complaint was issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thomas.

The court set the hearing for tomorrow and fixed bail at $1500. It was charged by the complaining witnesses that they intrusted 100 shares of the stock to Kirwin and that he sold them and kept the money.

JACK AND MARILYNN SEPARATE

Young Pickford and Wife Declare Intention of Going to Paris for Divorce

Marilynn Miller, Ziegfeld musical-comedy star, and her husband, Jack Pickford, motion-picture actor, have come to the parting of the ways and will seek a divorce in Paris early in June, he admitted last night.

JACK PICKFORD

Pickford said his wife was in Chicago now and would embark for France presently, while he will follow shortly thereafter and a Parisian tribunal will be petioned for a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility. Both will appear at the proceedings, he said, to avert Miss Miller from being forced to establish a residence in France.

"We tried a year's separation," Pickford admitted, "in an effort to prevent a divorce, but we finally decided that we were temperamentally unsuited for each other and decided to quit.

"There is positively no third party in either case. We are as good friends as ever and the divorce is a matter of mutual consent. I have only the highest regards for Miss Miller. She is a splendid actress and I wish her nothing but the greatest success."

MARILYN MILLER

Pickford said he had retained Attorney William Hayward to represent him and Miss Miller was to be represented in the French courts by Dudley Field Malone.

The marriage of Miss Miller and Pickford in Hollywood, July 31, 1926, was one of the most brilliant social events of filmland's social season that year. The ceremony took place at Pickfair, the home of Mary Pickford, Pickford's sister, and Douglas Fairbanks and was attended by the famous of moviedom.

Two years later reports declared a separation between the pair, although both denied it. Miss Miller was starring in the East on the legitimate stage, while Pickford was busy on the moving-picture lots of Hollywood.

The plans of the pair for the future are definite, Pickford said. Miss Miller, blond and accredited with histrionic ability, will be starred in a musical show for Florenz Ziegfeld next year, while Pickford will pursue his career before the motion-picture cameras.

EBELL CLUB WINS FIRST IN CONTEST

Nelke Players Also Take Eisteddfod Honors in Final Drama Awards

First places in the drama division of the intercommunity cultural activities contest sponsored by the California Eisteddfod Association were awarded to the drama workshop of the Ebell Club, Los Angeles, and the Nelke Players, Hollywood, in the finals held last night at the Gamut Club.

The Ebell Club won first place in the original plays group with "Dopted," by Margaret Borbrich Gillette, over "The Old Home," produced by the Signal Hill Civic League. The cast of the winning play included Mrs. Raymond Tremaine, Mrs. George Vernon, Mrs. Charles E. Stanton, Mrs. Milton E. Hammond and John Roumaine.

In the professional play division, the Nelke Players, with Edward Donnelly, Mary Donnelly, and Mildred Brannon in the cast of "Be Unseen," won over "Poor Aubrey," offered by the Signal Hill Civic Club.

Judges of the contest were Dr. L. F. Hazeltine, Burbank, Dean Roy K. Emmel of the University of Southern California and Granville Forbes Sturgis.

'Times' Carriers to Attend First Night of Rodeo

As guests of the Los Angeles National Horse Show Association, paper carriers of the Los Angeles Times will be "first nighters" Friday evening at the first annual Los Angeles Rodeo in the Coliseum.

Some of the most famous cowpunchers in the world will furnish the newsies with thrills gratis, as a result of special arrangements completed by Edward N. Vail, chairman of the executive committee sponsoring the event, with Addison P. Day, the director-general, and Hugh Strickland, the arena director.

Cowboys of international fame will ride the wildest of bucking horses and steers. Among these punchers are Paddy Ryan, Norman Cowan, Bob Crosby, all Roosevelt trophy winners, J. W. Harris, Mike Hastings and Mike Stewart. World-famous trick ropers and riders to be seen by the carriers include Chester Byers, Bob Calen and Tommie Kirnan. The cowgirls will also be on hand, among them being Ted Lucas, Mabel Strickland, Tillie Bowman and Bonnie Gray.

The cowboy events for a $30,000 purse will be supplemented by thrilling races between both braves and squaws of an entire tribe of Flathead Indians, who have established their village on the Coliseum grounds during their stay here for the big show. In addition to the races, the Indians will also present their famous war dances and songs.

ENGINEERS TO MEET

Watt L. Moreland, president of the Moreland Truck Company, will address the joint technical societies of Los Angeles at their regular weekly luncheon this noon at the Broadway Department Store Cafe. The Society of Automotive Engineers is in charge of the program. Mr. Moreland will speak on "The Development of Motor Transportation."

MIDAS WILL BE OUTDONE BY 'SCOTTY'

Death Valley's Mystery Man to Put "Millions" in Treasure on Display

For more than twenty years the fame of Death Valley, more or less has revolved around a cleaning compound made famous in connection with the world's largest mule team and "Death Valley Scotty," originally christened Walter Scott.

But in the near future a new factor in advertising the barren and hot wind-swept waste of Eastern California will be opened to the world, with "Scotty" again playing the chief part in the venture.

A "million-dollar castle" is being built by "Scotty" on his ranch in the valley where "we're gonna show the world the greatest supply of gold in captivity," the venerable desert man announced yesterday on his arrival at the Glendale Hotel in Glendale.

According to plans being worked out by Scotty and Eva Mudge, who many years ago thrilled vaudeville audiences as a quick-change artist, treasure worth "millions" will be on display in a glass case in the home now under construction, which Scotty says will take two years more to complete.

Scotty arrived in town yesterday to complete details for a special train in which he will try for a new speed record in a cross-continent dash to New York City. According to Passenger Agent Duffy of the Santa Fe, who will arrange Scotty's train schedule, the trip will cost the desert man approximately $50,000.

Scotty, who has been an international mystery since the last special train he chartered twenty years ago when he lavished money on all and sundry during his dash to New York, is still "flush," he said yesterday, but refused, as he always has, to divulge the source of his seemingly limitless wealth.

SUSPECT IN AUTO THEFT SHOT DOWN

Youth Trying to Escape at Pacoima Wounded Twice and May Lose Life

Frank Hernandez, 17 years of age, of 2236 Center street, Watts, was shot in the left hip and in the abdomen yesterday when he tried to escape from Police Officer Roddenbery, according to a report by Sergt. Johnson to Captain of Detectives Newstetter of the Van Nuys division. The youth was taken to the Van Nuys Receiving Hospital and later to the General Hospital. He is expected to die.

Sergt. Johnson and Officers Roddenberry, Langdon and Chase stopped an automobile containing Hernandez and four other youths near Pacoima. The car, they said they learned, belonged to E. J. Wells, 339 West Seventy-ninth street, and had been reported stolen from in front of a theater on Manchester avenue.

Roddenberry, according to the report, was left to guard the youths while the other officers went to investigate another suspicious car.

Hernandez, it was said, made a break for liberty and was shot by Roddenberry when he refused to halt. Of the other four youths, Mike Moreno, 17, of 9030 South Alameda street, and Angelo Vincenti, 19, of 8709 Juniper street, were taken to the City Jail, and Ray Mares, 14, of 1823 East Eighty-fourth street, and Porfirio Morales, 18, of 1781 East One Hundred and Fourth street, were taken to Juvenile Hall. All were held on suspicion of grand larceny.

FUNERAL OF MRS. REESE SATURDAY

Ellen Beach Yaw to Sing at Services Arranged for Well-Known Club Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. Cora May Martin Reese, for thirty-one years a resident of Los Angeles, who died yesterday morning after an illness of three years, will be conducted at Pierce Brothers' chapel at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. There will be songs by Ellen Beach Yaw, who was a close friend to Mrs. Reese, who was a director active in the work of the Lark Ellen Home for Boys. Mrs. Reese was also a member of the Ebell Club.

She was born in Malone, N. Y., in 1866 and was married at Portland, Or., in 1893 to Frank Reese, who was for many years active in Los Angeles political affairs. He retired three years ago when his wife was taken ill, in order to give his entire time to her care at the Reese home, 135 South Van Ness avenue, where Mrs. Reese died. She also leaves a son, Leroy W. Reese.

Police Seek Bandit Who Attacked Girl

Police last night were making an extensive search for an armed bandit who entered the apartment of Cora A. Westphal, 30 years of age, of 1527 McCadden Place, and attacked her when she told him that she had no valuables.

Miss Westphal had just entered her doorway when the bandit, flourishing his gun in her face, confronted her. He grabbed her pocketbook containing a small amount of money and opened it. After looking inside he appeared dissatisfied, she said, and handed it back to her. Then he attacked her.

She described her assailant as about six feet tall and dressed in a light suit and light cap. The man was of swarthy complexion and spoke with a foreign accent.

WAGY VAULT LOCKED

Another legal entanglement was faced by the principals in the investigation yesterday when it was learned that the Federal receivers were understood to have refused to take command of the Lewis assets in the A. C. Wagy and Company, bond brokers, which closed its doors to trading Monday.

Lewis was quoted as saying he had approximately $1,000,000 interest in the Wagy company and requested it to be placed in the hands of the Federal receivers for the protection of the stockholders. The receivers, appointed by United States District Judge McCormick to take over the Julian corporation assets, were understood to have refused the Wagy assets in the tangle, because of doubt as to their legal position to command the latter assets.

The impression was left that Judge McCormick was to be asked for an opinion as to the legality of the position of the receivers to take over Lewis's interests in the Wagy Company as part of their duties in administering the affairs of the Julian corporation.

A considerable furore arose in the closed office of the Wagy Company late yesterday when representatives of the various authorities investigating the situation appeared at the offices and demanded of Frank Creasey, manager of the Wagy Company, that he surrender all records, documents and securities of the company.

After some wrangling with the representatives of the various officials, Mr. Creasey declared he was at loss to know which one to serve, and as the demands grew he took drastic action.

While the authorities disputed the authority of each other, and each claimed priority to the record and securities seizure, Mr. Creasey pushed the steel-ribbed door of the huge securities vault closed and twirled a dial of the time lock.

"There, gentlemen," Mr. Creasey said, stepping back from the closed vault, "it is closed. The time lock is set for days, maybe a week. I cannot open it. When you have reached a decision among yourselves who is in authority to seize these records and securities, come prepared and I shall give you all the assistance possible."

POSTAL INQUIRY ON

Mr. Creasey said a preliminary investigation on Wagy and Company's books showed the concern between 80,000 and 100,000 shares of Julian short, but he explained that the assets of the company were sufficient to place it on a solvent basis, thereby eliminating alarm at the stock shortage.

While the announcement of the receivers gave the first inkling as to the exact amount of the asserted overissue of the stock, U. S. Atty. McNabb said that next Monday a government auditor would arrive in Los Angeles to begin an investigation of the records seized by the Federal authorities in the tangle.

Mr. McNabb said it would be impossible to present the matter to the Federal grand jury at this session, but that, with the assistance of the auditor, to be in a position, if necessary, to place the matter before the inquisitorial body at the next session.

There already is a Federal investigation proceeding under the postal inspectors and Mr. McNabb to determine if the mails were used in marketing any of the asserted overissued stock.

William C. Kottemann, an auditor engaged to examine the Julian corporation's books, declared that the figures announced by the receivers as overissued stock would not be affected one way or another by 100 shares in the final audit of the books, which he expects to complete within a few days and make a detailed report to the proper authorities.

INVESTIGATION GOES ON

The county grand jury today will resume its investigation into the financial muddle surrounding the petroleum corporation's overissue of stock with S. C. Lewis, resigned president of the organization, as a witness identifying records and documents of the concern which he spent yesterday segregating and placing in order to expedite the proceedings.

Another phase which may be called to the attention of the grand jury, Chief Deputy District-Attorney Davis announced, is the assertion of Attorney Ben S. Beery that he represented a client who notified the officials of the asserted overissue weeks before the stock was barred from trading.

U. S Atty. McNabb admitted that he had received such information in a letter on March 16, last, but that he referred Wray Bertholf, former book-keeper of Wagy & Co., Inc., the complainant, to the Corporation Commission for action because the government authorities could not act except on the complaint of a victim of fraud.

FRIEDLANDER TALKS

In a statement issued at his office, Corporation Commissioner Friedlander pointed out that on about March 11, last, B. H. Whittaker, in charge of the auditing department of the commission, was informed of an asserted overissue.

"We had a lengthy conference," Mr. Whittaker reported to Corporation Commissioner Friedlander, "and Mr. Bertholf gave statements substantially as they appear in the transcript of the notes taken at that time. He said he was in charge of certain ledgers which, to his mind, disclosed certain conditions. On the face of it his reasoning seemed fair. But he did not give consideration to a short condition that might be disclosed by a complete examination of all the ledgers, nor to the fact that repeated resales of Julian Petroleum Corporation stock might show a great many shares more than the entire capital stock of the company. Mr. Bertholf's statements, in themselves, were not proof of an overissue of stock, though they might indicate an oversale by the broker.

BEFORE JURY TODAY

"Furthermore, I figured that statements by a man who had recently been discharged should not be given the serious consideration that otherwise might be the case."

Mr. Whittaker pointed out to the commissioner that after a conference with other officials of the office they thought it advisable to discontinue an investigate on the Bertholf matter pending a report on the Kottemann audit of the Wagy & Co. books. He said he received a letter from Bertholf on March 17, but it was filed, and when the Kottemann report came to the office Corporation Commissioner Friedlander suspended the Wagy company's brokerage certificate. Mr. Kottemann confirmed Mr. Whittaker's explanation in a statement last night.

The District Attorney's office admitted that a letter had been received in March, last, similar to the one received by U. S. Atty. McNabb, but Mr. Davis said that no specific criminal charge against any person had been made in the missive and that it was referred to the Corporation Commission.

Attorney Beery and Mr. Bertholf were scheduled to be called to the District Attorney's office today for questioning concerning the asserted early information on the overissue of Julian stock and Mr. Davis said the matter might be taken before the grand jury in connection with the current investigation of that body.

Mr. Friedlander's complete statement on the matter follows:

LEWIS SUED FOR $135,000 IN JULIAN CASE

Charging that his money was used to assist in inflating the market price of Julian Petroleum stock and that he was prevented from selling his stock by promises that he would be reimbursed for any losses incurred by a drop in the market, DeKalb Spurlin yesterday filed suit for $135,196.62 in Superior Court against S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian corporation, and Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, another executive of the firm.

In a separate action Spurlin asks $39,723.26 from A. C. Wagy & Co., stock brokers, charging that he invested more than $43,000 with them to be used in purchasing Julian stock. He asserts, however, that the stock was never delivered to him and that officials of the firm conspired to accomplish an overissue of Julian stock.

According to the complaint against Lewis and Berman, Spurlin entered into an agreement with them to purchase Julian stock on or about March 1, 1926. It was further agreed, he states in his complaint, that he should not sell the stock without the mutual consent of Lewis and Berman and that they would reimburse him for any losses incurred.

An opportunity to sell the stock at an appreciable profit occurred in September, 1926, Spurlin states in his suit, but the defendants refused to consent and advised him to hold the stock for further increases with the result that he has suffered an asserted loss of $135,196.62.

Spurlin, who is a wealthy Monrovia capitalist with large holdings in that city and in the vicinity of Torrance, is represented by Attorneys Tanner, Odell and Taft of Los Angeles.

BELLS URGED TO WARN BATHERS

Proposed as Signals to Call Experts if Swimmers Get in Peril

The placing of bells with ropes attached at quarter-mile intervals along the Los Angeles beach frontage, the bells to be rung to attract the attention of good swimmers whenever bathers are in danger, was advocated in a letter to the City Council from Frank L. Ingels yesterday.

The matter was referred to the Parks and Playgrounds Committee.

VICTIM OF WIFE'S AIM ON STAND

Gun Play of Woman in Drummond Shooting Told; Policeman Confirms Story

Testimony of a dramatic nature opened the trial yesterday in Superior Judge Edmonds's court of Mrs. Mabel Drummond, accused of assault with intent to commit murder in the shooting of her husband, George A. Drummond, an automobile salesman.

Police Officer Coppedge testified that on January 18 he heard shots in front of the home of Mrs. Helen Salyer, 3381½ West Forty-second street, and later found Drummond shot. He stated that Mrs. Drummond said: "Sure, I shot him—if I couldn't live with him I wasn't going to let anyone else live with him."

Drummond testified that he met his wife and she asked him to return to her but he refused and then she shot him twice. The case, which is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Aggeler, will be continued today.

POLICEMEN WOUNDED BY GUNMAN

Suspect Opens Fire as Two Start to Quiz Him and Both Seriously Injured

Two policemen were shot and dangerously wounded about midnight last night by a man whom they attempted to question when his actions aroused their suspicions. They are Emil Coltsau, 34 years of age, and George Foster, 33. Both men are attached to the Seventy-seventh-street division station.

Coltsau was shot in the head, the bullet penetrating his skull back of the temple and emerging a few inches further back. Surgeons pronounced him seriously injured, but said he will live.

The bullet that struck Foster pierced the left side of his chest. He will live, although in a serious condition.

The two officers observed the gunman near the corner of Central avenue and Florence street behaving strangely. He was driving a touring car, and they, in another machine, drove alongside, asking the man to get out. As he stepped from the car he picked up a towel from the seat and from it drew a gun, which he immediately fired. He made his escape.

Budget to Care for Furnishing New City Hall

In preparing the municipal budget for 1927-1928, $300,000 has been set aside for the furnishings of the new City Hall, Mayor Cryer said yesterday. This will obviate the necessity of a bond issue for the purpose and is made possible, the Mayor added, by "conservation of the city's resources during the past year."

Mayor Cryer also said he is considering the advisability of using funds from the sale of the present City Hall with which to finance construction of a Police Department administration building in the new Civic Center.

"This also would avoid a bond issue," he declared. "The police department is badly in need of a new administration building."

DE MILLE TO BE GUEST OF BREAKFAST CLUB

Cecil B. De Mille, though a member of the Breakfast Club, will be its special guest of honor tomorrow morning, it was announced yesterday by Maurice DeMond, the president. DeMond said he has acceptances from Will H. Hays, Sid Grauman, Samuel Goldwyn, Joseph M. Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, D. W. Griffith, Nod LaRoque, Vilma Banky, Harold E. Franklin and others. DeMond also has arranged for a delegation of Indians and cowboys from the Los Angeles Rodeo. Among the guests will be Edward Bowland, secretary of the Federal Trade Commission, and Ida Coverman, secretary of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, DeMond said. Marjorie Dodge, Nino Herschell and Nacio Herb Brown will be on the entertainment program. The hosts will be Malcolm Stuart Boylan and Sam Levy.

BANQUET SCHEDULED BY DELTA SIGMA PI

With Emery E. Olson, director of co-ordination at the University of Southern California, and Clyde Belford, as speakers, the fifth annual Founders' Day banquet of Delta Sigma Pi, honorary commerce fraternity, will be held next Friday evening at the Men's University Club. Officers who will be installed are George Jansen, head master; Keith James, Kermit Wilson and Wallace Hicks. William Courtright will be toastmaster with response by Don Edwin, president of the Trojan college of Commerce student body. Delta Sigma Pi alumni expected include Prof. Clayton D. Carus, Prof. H. Dean Campbell, Walter M. Rudolph, Hillebert M. Smith, John A. Waldron, Rollin E. Ecks, Charles Berry, Horace Berry and Maury Latker.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S. which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1237 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—[Advertisement.]

STAGE SET FOR VALENCIA SHOW

Orange Exhibit Curtain to Rise Tomorrow

Final Inspection Made by Manager Reid

Packing Contest Expected to Draw Crowds

ANAHEIM, May 18. (Exclusive)—That there might be no hitch in the opening of the seventh annual California Valencia Orange Show at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning Manager George B. Reid and executives of the Chamber of Commerce tonight made a thorough inspection of the big top, the auto tent and the fun section to make sure nothing was lacking to complete this orange classic.

After the tour had been completed Manager Reid declared that all was in readiness to handle the large crowd that is expected to besiege the entrance gates at the scheduled time of opening.

SPECIAL-CAR SERVICE

Officials of the Motor Transit Company and the Pacific Electric Company also were on hand completing arrangements to handle the visitors who journey here by stage or street car. Frequent service will be maintained by both companies during the entire ten days of the show and special excursion rates will prevail on both lines, it was stated.

While the world's championship orange-packing contest will not be started until Friday night at 7:15 interest in the event is at fever heat throughout city and county and many guesses are being made as to which team and which individual packer will win first place.

With fifteen teams in the race, from three counties there is much rivalry between each section and indications point to a spirited battle before the judges render their decision.

CHILDREN TO ENTERTAIN

Each team has a large backing so that there will be plenty of enthusiasm displayed each of the five nights the contest will run.

Preceding the formal opening of the show tonight by Lieut.-Gov. Pitts, the local Legion will honor him with a banquet to which several out-of-town guests have been invited as well as the officials of the show and officers of Orange county cities.

The program today is in charge of the American Legion and contains many interesting numbers.

Tomorrow is children's day and Uncle John and the Sandman of KHJ will bring down a score or more of kiddies who will provide a program for the evening entertainment.

TICKET SALE FOR BOWL IN FAST START

Seventy-five Canvassers Take 1100 Season Books to Sell First Day

With more than seventy-five workers numbering prominent Los Angeles and Hollywood women taking the field, the annual season ticket book sales campaign of the Hollywood Bowl Association was given a whirlwind start yesterday.

Exactly 1100 books, each containing 40 tickets to the Bowl summer concerts, were released to the workers by Mrs. E. B. Welrick, campaign chairman, and Dudley Blanchard, sales director, at the close of the inaugural luncheon Tuesday.

Almost 1000 more are yet to be issued to workers unable to attend the luncheon. Thirty-seven Hollywood and Los Angeles retail stores took another total of 1200 books, making 2300 in all.

With sales campaign headquarters, separate from the Bowl general offices, opened at 6754 Hollywood Boulevard, telephone GLadstone 7608, group meetings are to be held there daily. Lieutenants under Mrs. William H. Clifford, captain, have a meeting scheduled today, while a captains' meeting is scheduled tomorrow at 10:30 a.m.

Jesse James Requests Bar Permit Here

Attorney Jesse E. James, said to be a son of the colorful outlaw who ranged the Southwest in the early days, has applied for admittance to the California bar. It was learned yesterday. Mr. James, who practiced law for many years in Kansas City, lives with his family at 810 West Fortieth street.

Mr. and Mrs. James have two daughters, Ethel Rose and Lucille, in Los Angeles, and two others, Jessie Estelle James and Mrs. J. Francis Ross of Kansas City. Mr. James has a sister, Mrs. H. L. Varr, living at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

STUDENTS ELECT

David Larimer Chosen Classmen's Head at Southwestern University

Balloting for new student officers, which began several days ago at Southwestern University, ended last night with the election of David B. Larimer as president.

Other officers for 1927 are Albert Behrstock, first vice-president; Harold Lloyd, second vice-president; Milton D. Klein, secretary; Lyle Waterman, treasurer, and Walter Parker, sergeant-at-arms.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED TO NURSES

Methodist Hospital School Graduates Largest Class Since Founding

Thirty-nine young women, representing the largest graduating class of the Southern California Methodist Hospital School of Nursing since its founding in 1912, received diplomas last night at the thirteenth annual commencement exercises in the First Methodist Church, 801 South Hope street.

Rev. James A. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, delivered the address.

The class was presented by Dr. Luther G. Reynolds, superintendent of the Methodist Hospital, and the diplomas were presented by F. A. Powell, vice-president of the board of directors of the institution. Pins for meritorious study were awarded by Fannie R. North, superintendent of nurses, while greetings were expressed by Mrs. Margaret Locke Coates, conference president of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Prayer was offered by Rev. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. L. T. Guild, Los Angeles district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The musical program included the organ prelude by Arthur Bdakeslee, organist; vocal solo by Virgie Lee Mattoon, accompanied by Mrs. Glenn Turner; vocal duet by Virgie Lee Mattoon and Grace Whitsell Arnold; vocal solo by Beth Woodruff Parker, accompanied by Mary Francis Hopkins; vocal solo by Grace Whitsell Arnold, accompanied by Mrs. Glenn Turner, and selections by the Hollenbeck Masonic Chanters, directed by Arnold H. Wagner.

Diplomas were received by the following:

CITY TO TEACH SWIMMING

Hundreds of school children are to be taught to swim and to aid others in distress in the water through the co-operation of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department and the city public schools.

By the joint arrangement school teachers are to form swimming classes among their pupils and escort them at scheduled times to the municipal pools where playground experts will give them aquatic instruction. It is believed that the total number taught to care for themselves in the water and to be of assistance to others will quickly run into thousands.

Police and firemen also are to be trained in aquatics by the department.

PARADERS' $50 FINES SUSPENDED

Twenty-seven Plead Guilty of Violating Law May Day; One Defeated Candidate

Twenty-seven men charged with participating in the May Day parade without a parade permit pleaded guilty to the charge in Municipal Judge Richardson's court yesterday. They were sentenced to pay $50 fines or serve fifty days, the sentences being suspended for two years.

Among those who pleaded guilty was Sam Globerman, unsuccessful candidate for the Board of Education at the recent primaries. The men, together with one juvenile, were arrested May 1 by officers of the police detail in charge of radical activities.

Says Boarders Got Attention Due Family

The question of whether a woman can run a boarding-house and rear a family at the same time has been sent down to Mary Maxwell, referee of the alimony court, to determine.

John Martinovitch raised the issue in Judge Bowren's court yesterday. His wife is suing him for divorce. They have two children. Martinovitch applied for their custody, contending his wife's boarders keep her so busy she has no time to care for them.

Judge Bowren declared he was a little short of time, and, as it promised to be a long-drawn controversy, referred the matter to Miss Maxwell.

BUILDING REFUSED

Because of technical violations of the zoning ordinance, the City Council yesterday denied an application by T. D. Modra, an artist, for a special permit to construct a studio building on the rear of his premises at 2003 Canyon Drive. Construction of the building was protested by John R. Prince and other residents of the block.

THE adventures of a gold-digger of the Twentieth Century, a story of bright lights and shady business, of easy money and uneasy consciences. On the day that young Charley Maddox, his bank balance $48.00, is fired from his job, his wife, Bertha, buys a new dress costing $250.00. That is the first step. From then on Bertha is driven by ambition and her determination to get the luxuries other women have. All she asks of her husband is money and more money, no matter where it comes from—and she gets what she asks for.

He Rides Alone

By Richard Washburn Child

"WHAT about this man Borah? Where's he taking us now that he's chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee? What sort of a person is he really?" These are inevitable questions whenever his name enters a discussion—yet no senator is more in the public eye, no senator has a wider audience when he speaks. From fifteen years close study Richard Washburn Child interprets this solitary, enigmatical figure in He Rides Alone, in The Saturday Evening Post.

Now Ask Me One

By Sam Hellman

WHETHER the number of rivets in the Brooklyn Bridge, or the three chief exports of Timbuctoo, mean anything in your young life or not, you'll laugh till you ache over the havoc wrought in three families by one innocent little Quiz-book, which even vanquished the redoubtable Harold Spencer who was so smart that he made his friends pay for his wife's Siberian sable. Sam Hellman outdoes himself in Now Ask Me One, in The Saturday Evening Post.

Natchez

By Joseph Hergesheimer

FROM the instant Sylvester Dering tossed aside his smoking pistol and stepped quickly ashore as the Ramapo touched the landing, to that pitiful moment when Damaris Vaun's whip slashed across his defenseless face, this strange and touching story of a man who found paradise on this earth, only to be turned away because of his sin, moves before a background which glows with all the color and romance of the South of the 1840's. Don't miss Natchez, by Joseph Hergesheimer, in The Saturday Evening Post.
